"The Good Life"

Capturing the Good Life requires a community of spirited people eager to develop the best in themselves and their school. The Good Life, referring to various aspects of daily actions which particularly stand out as enjoyable, involves desire, determination, dedication, and also discipline. Hard work can also contribute to a meaningful and worthwhile life. The same applies to overcoming a particularly difficult area. Keeping an interest alive in one of these difficult areas may be achieved by maintaining a positive disposition, putting forth one's best effort, and attaining a standard of enthusiastic involvement.

Through this active participation comes a more positive attitude toward one's self and one's school. This enthusiasm stands for pride and self-worth. It is also a symbol of our animated existence in this world. The zeal brought about by this enthusiasm encourages a much higher standard of school participation and a more lively and active social life for the eager student. Thus, whether lunching, learning, laughing, or lingering, an individual may gain an exceptional inclination to capture that vital spark; the good life.

Capture . .

Capturing the Good Life in sports requires an athlete to possess velocity, promptitude, endurance, and an excellent mental attitude. Ambition, as well as hard work, is a key element in the success of excethlete. An athlete displaying unrelenting dedice eccives a beneficial and everlasting impact sectors a bive willingness to seize an opportunity indicates a livewire at full tilt. Athletes displaying this vigor become important parts in teams. For a team to succeed, all participants must be willing to put in their oar. With quickness and agility, athletes must make a sound effort to reel in a victory, while keeping team mates in a common bond of fellowship and unity. Taking the spotlight off of the athletes for a moment, let's recognize some of the people "behind the scenes." First, there are the fans; without whom there would be no glory. Next, the cheerleaders, who are constantly showing their outrageous school spirit by performing enthusiastically on the sidelines. And, most important of all, the coaches. Without their leadership and guidance, the athletes would be nowhere. All of these people combine their efforts to lead the bold athletes into a glorious, well-deserved victory. "All for one, and one for all." This famous statement sums up the teamwork, as well as individuality, required to Capture the Good Life in sports.

"The Good Life"

Capturing the Good Life in academics requires a serious student ready to dedicate many hours to studies and hard work. With a businesslike attitude, persistent students may take an active part in their futures, and attain a standard of pride and self-worth. Through being involved in academics, students compete with their peers and themselves. With their peers, students struggle to achieve a better mark, or greater recognition. The struggle from within comes from a strong desire to challenge others and come out on top; to be the best. Also, through this challenge comes self-satisfaction and a sense of accomplishment. Industrious, outgoing students form the competitive atmosphere of the academic community. However, any student can put forth a sincere effort and make progress with grades and self esteem along with achieving a better outlook on their future. Thus, an eager and persistent student, in full swing with life and spirit, may Capture the Good Life.

Christina Larsen and Leticia Urioste express their friendship during halftime.

In our day to day lives, we don't really look at school as being a big influence on us, but it actually plays an important role in our development. Most of our intelligence was brought about through the education we have received in school, and also through our parent's impact. Extra-curricular activities are a big part of many student's lives, being both enjoyable and challenging.

Of course, there's a lot more in our lives than just school. Friends share in a large amount in our existance, being both someone to have fun with and conffidant.

Making use of the entertainment resources of the Sant Clarita Valley isn't all that difficult. Bowling, golfing, boating, swimming, windsurfing, shopping, and going out with friends are an abundance of activities that are just within our grasp.

Striving for the best in anything we do sets us apart from the rest as a group of outstanding individuals!

"Masquerade Till Midnight"

A Halloween homecoming monster mash bash all in one night? Yes, that's what we had at Canyon and it started off with an abundance of activities. On Monday, it was the "Bubble gum in whipped cream" class competition. Tuesday's was the "Mummy Wrap" competition. On the following day, there was a Treat relay. Thursday's event was the Guy's Homecoming Court Pie Auction, where each prince got to be creamed by the highest bidder. That following evening there was a bonfire rally and the crowning of 1986 Homecoming King-senior, Chad Zeigler. Then came the big day, Friday, promising to be a long and unforgetable evening. It started off with the traditional Dress-up contest and the Girl's Homecoming Court Pie Auction during lunch. The evening started off with the spectacular Homecoming parade. The parade was led by Grand Marshall, Mrs. Ardyce Masters, followed by, the band and Drill team, the class floats and the homecoming princesses. The Juniors won the float competition. The end of the parade marked the beginning of the varsity football game against Quartz Hill. At halftime the coronation of the queen took place. Crowned 1986 Homecoming Queen was Miss Toby Bauer. Senior princesses were Michele Crowder, Lisa Grimaldo, Pam Mckie, and Jenny Pinkerton, Senior princes were Andy Boron, Paul Chadwell, Lance Cross, and Kenny Sollom. Junior prince and princess were Kevin Doss and Marni Phillips. Sophomore prince and princess were Cam Cross and Shawna McKeon. Freshman prince and princess were Clint Bauer and Nicole Pinkerton. After the coronation, the football game continued and ended with a smashing victory of 45 to 13.

Going For The Gold!

C.I.F sports, are they what make this school recognized? Seven teams in fall and winter sports made it to the California Interscholastic Federation playoffs. Football, Girls' Volleyball, Boys' and Girls' Cross-Country, Boys' and Girls' Soccer, and Boys' Basketball made it to C.I.F.

Football, behind the excellen playing of all-Coastal Conference players Chad Ziegler and Trevor Doyle, along with the C.I.F Coastal Conference player of the year, Ken Sollom, went to the semi-finals in that conference. The team also established the longest winning streak in the Southern section at 46 games.

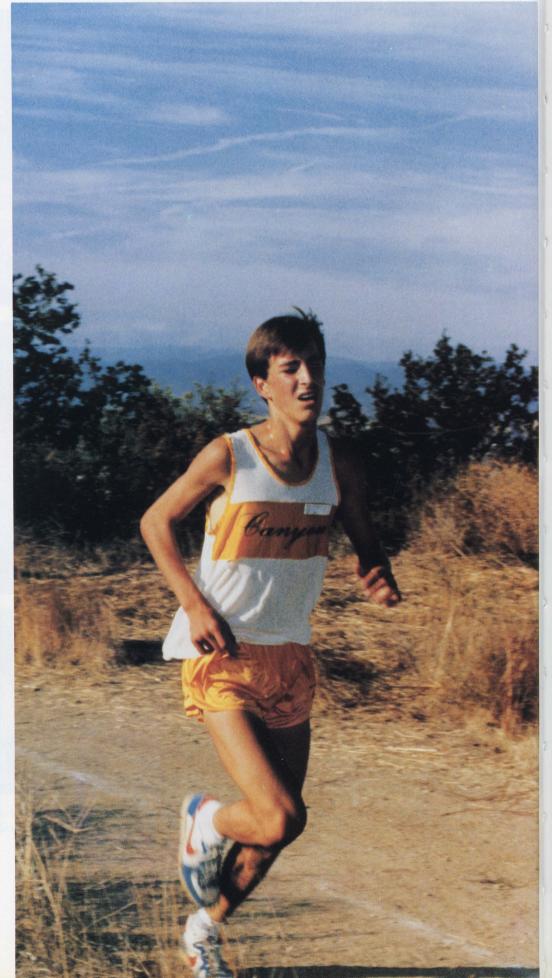

Boys' cross-country, with mainly freshmen and sophomores, was led by captain, Glenn Munn, and Mike Rattary, Goldon League champion in cross-country, to a second place finish in league. This was the first time the boys went to C.I.F 4-A preliminaries in school history after placing eighth in C.I.F. 3-A finals the year before.

The girls', also led by freshmen and sophomores, and team M.V.P and captain Jenni Bassett, went to the C.I.F. 3-A preliminaries for the second year in a row after a tenth place finish in the C.I.F 2-A finals a year before.

Girls' volleyball also had another great season. Once again they repeated as Goldon League champions.

Girls soccer became the Goldon League champions for the first time ever in school history. Led by such seniors as Renee Bunning and goalie, Karen Bachle, the team had an unbelievable season.

Boys' basketball, behind Greg Paskieweitz and Stuart Sayre, won the Goldon League championship for the second straight year. Not picked by league coaches to win the title, their determination helped them to win the title.

Boys' soccer, backed up by the excellent playing of David Westfield and many others, had a good season. All of the teams' dedication to Coach Linburg, helped them to C.I.F.

Overall, all the teams had excellent seasons and have shown the rest of the Southern section and Southern California that we have the teams that beat.

The Winter Formal, synonymous with a beautiful and romantic scene filled with sensual satins and tantalizing tuxes, was held on December 13. The evening was a gothic picturesque and approriately conformed with the theme-"A Mystical Winter Romance". The winter court consisted of senior princess Ronda Leibsker and prince Ernie Figuero, sophomore princess Cindy Byrne and Prince Rob Caulfield, and freshman princess Jennifer Moore and prince Chris Peery. Junior princesses were Monique Abbinati, Kim Doughman, Sarah Keenan and Carrie Wescott. Junior Princes were Mike DeMeo, Jared Henderson, Ken Holsenbeck, and Garrett Hooper. Crowned Winter Formal Queen 1987 was Jodi Garasi and King Shawn White. Music entertainment was provided by D.J. Genepro. Those in attendance enjoyed hors d'oevrvers and a special punch provided by the ASB. The Winter Formal was yet another great success thanks to the efforts of Lisa Grimaldo, the Senior class and all those who were present.

We Got The Spirit!

The sound of the crowd could be heard for miles around. Enthusiasm was at its best. Cheerleaders led freshmen and seniors alike in showing school spirit. Where could this kind of excitement be displayed? Rallies, of course.

Students from all ends of the campus packed into the many rallies that were held. The Drill Team gave well choreographed performance to "Oh Yeah", "Boy Meets Girl", "Summer Love", and "Miami Vice". The marching band played many euphonic numbers like selections from "West Side Story", "Rocky", "Over Seas March", and "Alma Mater". Cheerleaders also were acfive in orgainizing entertaining skits as well as hosting the rallies.

These special events helped raise school spirit to an all time high. They contributed to every victory our school has accomplished. Rallies will always be a unique way to express pride in school as well as being enjoyable entertainment for everyone.

The crowds, the concession stand line, the band and drill team performing, sound familiar? These were all halftime activities, of course. Whether the football game was away or at home. The story was the same.

Some halftimes were spent simply saving a seat or watching the band and drill team do a halftime performance of exciting routines such as songs from the "Westside Story." Other halftimes were used to socialize with friends. or wait in a long line to get a snack. The most important halftime was Homecoming where the crowd cheered on the floats and the new queen, Toby Beaur, the king, Chad Ziegler.

"Shake It Up Baby!"

One of the most popular ways to spend time off was to go dancing. Some went to clubs such as the Florintine Gardens, 321 and Dimensions. Others attended school dances such as Homecoming and the Winter Formal.

Yet no matter where the dancing was done, it was always a great way to let off steam and be with that favorite dance partner. The music stood out with groups such as The Bangels, The Cure, Depeche Mode and Run DMC. These groups kept the dance floors crowded with dancers who enjoyed the music.

Dances provided a place to go, and something to do. They let students express themselves freely, and promote safe, worthwhile fun. Dances will always be a bright part of school, and will keep students on their feet for a long time to come.

Reverse Roles

The spirit is country, and the look is cowboy! This year our annual Sadie Hawkins was a rip roarin' dance dedicated to the tradition of breakin the tradition. Sadie Hawkins is the long loved custom in which the girl gets to bend the rules, and ask the guy out to a dance.

The dance featured a live disc jockey, refreshments, and "get down to it" music. All this for the price of $15.00. Plus there were pictures, and for a mere dollar, Mr. Hayes married couples. The dollar paid for a miniceremony, and a marriage certificate.

Many people attended the dance, which was held in the gym. Bails of hay were brought in to add to the feeling, along with a giant fiberglass horse. Junior Michelle Henson commented, "It was a very memorable experience."

All in all, the Sadie Hawkins was a successful, exciting experience, for many students and their sweethearts.

Now and Forever

Soft lights, beautiful music, and memories to last a lifetime. "Now and Forever" a spectacular theme to top a spectacular evening. The girls shopped til' they dropped to find the perfect dress to impress their dates. The guys rented their tuxedos in varied styles including tails, scarfs, hats, and even shorts. A frequent sight was a fine tailored tux with tennis shoes.

The Queen was Kim MacDougall and the king was Chad Lems. They represented their class in a most eloquent manner.

"The prom was a night filled with fun and enchantment. A night to always remember", said senior Glenn Page. During the night the prom goers danced to the sounds of the group Rembrant. Although the dance floor was small, all the students managed to squeeze in. After the prom, many went to the beach to continue their romantic evening by walking bare foot in the sand. A time that is "Now and Forever".

It's one of the oldest of hobbies and still a favorite among people of all ages. It is a necessary aspect of everyone's life, especially with teenagers who indulge themselves in it. What was this four letter word activity that get people in such a frenzy? - Shop!

In interviews with students, we found a wide spectrum of differences in individual preferences. Popular locations range from Northridge to La Jolla, and include such malls as Northridge Fashion Center, Topanga Plaza, Hollywood, Glendale Galleria and Beverly Hills. Favorite stores include Bullocks, Broadway, Nordstroms, Saks, The Limited, Contempo, GHQ, and Chess King.

The clothing expence for some students by - pass that of all their living expenses put together. For example, Debbie Rupert spent about two hundred dollars every month; and Christine Lewis' expenses come to a sum of some two hundred and forty dollars per month.

Boys, on the average, spend much less. That's because their expenditures include a wider variety of item from tapes, records, and car parts to dinner bills for their dates. Shopping has a different meaning to each individual, whether it be shopping for clothes, a hobby, necessities, or species of the opposite sex. No matter how times change, shopping will always remain a necessary and popular activity for all.

Super Students! There was no better way to describe some of the students who had entered the job field. These students with homework and other activities had taken on the extra responsibility of a job. They have entered the first steps of adulthood. Their reasons for having a job differ, but mostly it boils down to one thing; having cash.

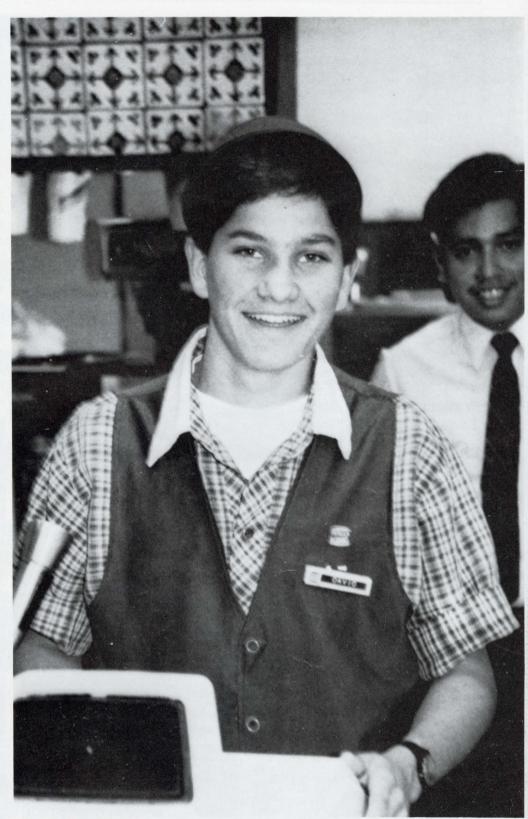

One example of a person entering the job world would be senior Brandon Groiler. Brandon works at Vons grocery store as a box boy and bagger. He puts in twenty-five hours a week. He worked more when he first started, but his studies cut his hours down. Brandon's opinion of the job is that he loved it at first, but now its just a job.

Another student, Kevin Mattson, works as a page at the local Canyon Country Library. He collects, organizes, and stacks books back in place. Kevin works a steady sixteen hours a week. He says that it is an "easy job".

Lastly, there is a unique employee by the name of Michelle Crowder. She works at the Valencia Health Club, and what makes her unique is that she is an aerobics instructor. She works five days a week, one hour a day. "I love it!" she exclaims, "I would work out anyway, so I might as well get paid for it".

Students who have gone ahead in life are setting themselves up to be good business men and women. Earning their own money and having the responsibility of a job will contribute to the success of these students.

Ups and Downs

Controversial & beneficial changes were brought to our school.

There were topics which have not been dwelled upon for many years, and brand new subjects to add to all the excitement, there were indeed, ups and downs.

One of the main interests of the students was the administating of the new mandatory Rallies topic. This has also been referred to as the "Closed - Campus policy." During these rallies many students could be seen running for thier vehicles to continue the tradition of eating "OUT"! The policy calls for no one to leave campus during rallies at all. Many students were opposed to this. Yvette Quinn, a senior said "I feel that mandatory rallies are pretty lame, and it takes away our chances for a longer lunch which is vital to alot of teenagers social life."

Another topic which has not been discussed for over three years was a Cowboy football loss. This year it happened, but we still ended up with a fine 11-2 record. The team has 46 wins, that tied the all time C.I.F. record.

Also, there was a new form of registation introduced which pleased some and angered others. Jennifer Pinkerton, a 12th grader, remarks "I feel that the computerized registration was a pain. I wanted to be #1 but I was 239, Bummer, huh."

One very important additive was the new gym floor, and our new Canyon sign. When bats invaded the old sign, and caused the "O" to fall off. The administation decided to control the rodent problemby painting the new sign to the wall.

Throught out the school year these were many fine moments, and frustrating times, there were ups and downs ...

What is fun to students in S.C.V.? Surveys were taken and here are the results. First on the list inspirational places, where guys and girls go to gaze at the stars. Places such as Bouquet Canyon Falls, the Nike Base, and Vasquez Rocks. Then after going to watch the stars they liked to go to Penguin's Frozen Yogurt Place, or maybe cruise Lyons Ave .. On Tuesday the clear cut majority was dollar night for fun. It was a cheap price and a good place for quality movies at the MANN. Vasquez cousins, Andriana, and Yolanda, seniors, both liked going to Magic Mountain and dancing at Decibles on Friday night. Andriana says "I like Decibles because it's a great place to dance. I think if you want to meet people it is the best place! Friday and Saturday are the best."

Creatures of Habit

LUNCH- The dictionary defines it as a light, midday meal. But what does lunch really mean? To students, lunch was the most important event of the day. It was a time to race out of the parking lot before a traffic jam formed. It was also a time to be with friends and enjoy all the activities offered on campus.

To some students, lunch was a time to go out. They went mostly to fast food places such as Mc Donalds, Taco Bell and Carl's Jr. But to other students, lunch was a 45 minute escape to see friends and participate in lunch time activities. There were class competitions such as, "The chop Stick Chew-off." Students from each class would compete and earn points for the "class of the year" competition. There were also lip sync competitions, and rallies for students who stayed on campus. Lunch remains one of the most important parts of the day no matter how it is spent and will always be greatly appreciated.

iors-this is Look around you. After this next year, you probably will never see most of these people again ... that is, until your ten-year reunion comes along. Yes, that inevitable event is one in which grown people compare how well life has treated each alum nus, where they see who gained the most weight, who is the wealthiest, and to whom through the years has age been the kindest (not to mention the miracles of plastic surgery).

Sen.

Have you ever wondered what and what not to do in order to be a success at this nostalgic event? Well, here are some steps aimed at helping you:

- Step 1: Get rid of that alien object attached to your torso that inhibits you from seeing your feet. Yes, tone those tummies (don't forget your arms, thighs, etc.).
- Step 2: Wash that gray right out of your hair. You may not need to at the ripe old age of twenty-seven or twenty-eight, but think about your twenty-year reunion . . .
- Step 3: Buy clothes of the latest vogue. Don't show up dressed in your high scchool attire or worse yet, your old prom dress that doesn't fit anymore.
- Step 4: "Rent-A-Kid" and/or "Rent-A-Spouse" (good-looking ones of course) and take lots of pictures of them.
- Step 5: "Rent-A-Car" (limosines are too obvious) to achieve a complete look of success.
- Step 6: Never, no matter how nervous you get, never let them see you sweat.
- Step 7: Find your old yearbook (senior year) and try to remember everyone's name.

Step 8: Remember where this article is located in that yearbook in order to use these helpful hints when the time comes for you to miss something, too bad. These teachers don't try to be a friend or treat the student with respect as a person.

Pressure can be beaten if everyone just relaxes and tries not to worry too much. Students are going through "troubled" times, and we need to treat them as babies.

HOW FAR CAN AN EDUCATION GO?

Canyon High School is often acclaimed more for its performance on the field than in the classroom. Some parents would say Canyon has its priorities out of perspective. It is in the classroom that we should be concentrating our efforts, setting our goals, and preparing for our futures. Being a student-athlete, I am obligated to agree but I must present the other side of the coin. There is not a coach on campus who would place a sport ahead of an education. Most coaches, however, feel that the education goes beyond the walls of a classroom.

The demands put upon an athlete in a program such as Canyon's, reaches beyond that needed to survive on the field. He must learn to balance classes, team meetings, workouts, studytime, and in some cases a weekend job or a campus club. This is an educational experience overlooked by many adults. A student with this schedule is getting get any better than at the present moment. Many mistakes were made; fortunately, lessons were to be learned from them. That year brought many new experiences, which since then, have helped me numerous times in my present decision making.

Sixteen was a definite growing-up period. I look around now and can say I'm glad that this stage is finally over.

RUSSIA: WHO WANTS TO LIVE THERE?

This year, I toured a country that the United States looks on as an evil place to live. I toured the Soviet Union, and it was an experience I'll never forget. I played on a volleyball team that represented the U.S. and we played against other Soviet teams. Even though we were a sports delegation, we toured many important monuments in each city.

Our first city we played in was the city called Volgograd. We were there for four days. The weather was freezing and occasionally, it was snowing. In our first city, our group had the chance to meet each other. The average age of our group was around twenty-four years old. Once everybody got to know each other, the trip was very interesting. We met with University students who spoke little english, and for the most part, we spoke very little Russian. The conversations were somewhat interesting.

Our schedule was basically the same from City to City. We would arrive in the morning, see some sights that day, have practice that evening, have dinner, then go to bed. Then the next two days, we would go on tours,

I remember falling in love as a freshman, with the first girl that acknowledged my existence by saying "hi." I remember the Sophomore and Junior years as the difficult years. We didn't receive the same attention as the budding Freshmen or the full-bloomed Seniors.

We were somewhere in the middle. How we did in our Sophomore and Junior years determined where we would stand in our Senior year. If I may borrow from Dante, the Sophomore and Junior years were Purgatory, and how we performed determined if our Senior year would be Heaven or Hell.

As a Senior, I look back at the past four years and wonder where they went. There were people I liked, and people I wish I was never involved with. There were things I wish I had done differently, and some things I wish I had never done at all. I think we all feel this way now, or will feel this way when we reach this transitory point in our lives.

One thing is for sure—these years are gone. But, hopefully, each of us will do or has done something that will make these years last us a lifetime within our spirits. These are

Pressure

Academic pressure for the college bound student is mounting more and more. Each year only a certain amount of students are accepted into colleges or universities. The effort or goal to get good grades can make or break a student.

The SAT test may cause the most stress. Students preparing for the SAT spend so much time trying to cram every little bit of knowledge that can be pushed into their minds. College bound students go to workshops, read numerous books, then on the test day, blank out. They've tried to stuff so much knowledge into their head that they just blank out. Some wait to the last minute to study.

Parents also put pressure on students more than anyone else. Parents reward children for good grades and punish for bad. Even if students are trying hard, their parents become angry at low grades. Parents seem to expect too much from their kids, but parents are the only people who really know their child's abilities.

Teachers pressure students sometimes. They try to encourage students to do their best, and they try to help their students individually. But, there are also those teachers who don't care, they teach class, and if you an education that is preparing him for the daily challenges life is going to offer.

Athletics don't just build bodies; they build character, perseverence, aggressiveness, and a spirit of competition not always reached in the classroom but every essential in the game called life!

Andy Boron

Classroom films, if so bad, why so popular?

The typical classroom film is designed to educate, motivate, or persuade the students on very "interesting" subjects. Instead, these "classics" put the students into a deep, undisturbed sleep. Obviously, these films are popular because they require absolutely no thinking. Most students are not interested intellectual stimulation and enjoy having to do absolutely nothing for a full 1/2 hour. As long as these films continue to be "interesting and fun to watch", we students will continue to learn to develop great sleeping habits.

Sixteen! I couldn't wait! My birthday was a mere three days away, and I was getting more impatient by the second. For years now, I had looked forward to being sixteen. I would finally be able to drive, date, and have a late curfew. I decided beforehand that sixteen would be a turning point in my life. I would be given more responsibility, and I would use it accordingly.

As it turned out, sixteen wasn't all that it was cracked up to be. Along with the driver's license came car insurance payments and my first job. Dating brought me my first boyfriend and broken heart. I spent a week or two of that wonderful year being grounded, due to the fact that the "later curfew" was broken a few times too many.

Around six months after my birthday I couldn't help thinking about how great it would be if I was seventeen. Sixteen was beginning to wear on me; I was simply anxious for this period in my life to end.

My sixteenth year, admittedly, had its ups and downs. At times, I felt it was completely awful, and other times I felt life could never have a match at night, and go to bed. On the fourth day, we would travel to the next city.

The Soviet life style is totally different from ours. The people on the streets and in the subways are totally expressionless. Once they're in their homes, they are similar to us. They laugh, drink, and have a good time. I learned there isn't any way to be a millionaire. Everything is owned by the government, and all the people are basically paid the same. That means a mine worker would make the same as a doctor. But the doctor may get some benefits, such as a car, a bigger apartment, and possibly better food.

I guess the main thing I learned in the Soviet Union was that the people and their feelings are the same as ours. Their government is somewhat different, but they influence their people as much as we do. One time a student from Russia asked me why we wanted to start a war with them. I laughed at first, but I saw the expression on his face. He was serious. I then explained how we don't want war, and that we got the impression from movies and television that the Soviets want war. It's amazing how much it influences their people. If I had the chance again, I would love to go back.

Here is a student we've seen twice before, and now he's only got one year more.

He's finally learned all the styles and trends, And those mythical seniors, he tries to befriend.

The job he has will hold him till tommorrow, But until then, from mom and dad will their student borrow.

Everyday for lunch, he piles his friends into the car, but his pocket can't afford Carl's Famous Star.

He knows exactly what teachers to take, to walk down the aisle and graduate.

He thinks he's a senior, but he's really not, But come next year, he'll fit into that spot. two, one, the shot of a gun is heard; the buzzer goes off; the game is over. Studies are being made everywhere to find the results, but they differ from community to community, city to city, and state to state. Where there is a decrease, there is an increase somewhere else. We can't expect this problem to disappear overnight. We must observe how long it has taken to get where it is. Bothered Students

In my years as a student, I have found that many things teachers do really irk students. I'm not talking about when a student gets angry when a teacher gives him an "F" on a test. I'm referring to legitamate reasons for a student to be irked. However a legitimate reason in the mind of a student would most likely to be referred to as an incorrect observation by a teacher. From discussions with other students, I have come up with a few of the most popular irks, students feel about teachers.

First of all, the most popular irk is that teachers believe they are always right. In the teachers mind, everything he or she does is right. If a student mentions something that the teachers do wrong, the teacher takes on the offense. It makes one think if the teacher took the correction personally, like it was an attempt to ruin his credibility. The first thing that a teacher usually does when he is questioned is get a wondering look on his face. The teacher then asks the students to repeat himself, as if it was a stalling method. The Canyon and Saugus football game. Canyon students sneak over to Saugus, and teepee the school. At the same time Saugus students go to Canyon to place Saugus poster everywhere around Canyon. All day Friday, the air is stiff at both schools with the anticipation of the big game. Every student shows complete loyalty to their schools. They defend their honor, and claim they will be victorious. As game time approaches, the stands become full with spectators. Both sides eagerly await the kickoff. There is constant cheering on both sides. Each school knows that bragging rights for the Santa Clarita Valley are up on the line. The game soon becomes a cheering competition between the stands. At half-time everyone gathers the concession stands. The air is no longer tense and everybody freely mingles, knowing that after halftime, the truce is over. After the half, there is more of a feeling of two friends fighting. At the end of the game, both sides are friends again. The winners rub it in, and the losers swear revenge. There are no hard feelings. The game has been fun and there are no enemies walk

"Don't Be Blind About Friendship"

When I was young there was a time when everything I ever cared about was in one person; my best friend. I never thought I'd loose her but I was blind and unable to see that she didn't care about me. The only thing she cared about was having someone there to make her pain go away. I was only able to do so much and was certainly not a miracle maker. It was hard enough making my life what I wanted it to be, let alone hers, too.

She was a good friend, who I thought I could turn to. She was the type of friend that I was able to say, "I love you." to. We did everything together: went to the movies, talked on the phone and even did our homework, besides the fact that our classes were entirely different. She actually made my junior year the best year ever, but as the saying goes," all things must come to a end" and she moved.

When she moved she was told she had to attend another school. Neither one of us liked that too much, but she disliked the idea more than I. She hated it enough to make-up a terrible incident which would allow her to return to Canyon. being her best friend, she told me it was all a lie. Because I was her best friend, I told her mother not yet knowing it was not the truth. She finally confessed to her mother, but her mother felt I had to be involved in her plan. So, her mother asked that we would stop seeing each other.

It took me awhile to accept the fact that I was never going to see her again, but I have faced the reality that our friendship is over. I have overcome this "obstacle" and begun a is made. Canyon is just blowing away thee hir

Is Teenage Drinking and Drug Abuse Incrasing?

Todays teenagers are up against very serious and difficult problems early in their life. The pressure teens are facing has increased greatly over the years. In todays fast paced society, teens are up against problems unimaginable to the older generations.

One such problem is the ever increasing use of alcohol and drugs by teenagers. Until recently, the problem seemed to be swept under the rug. Now, self help groups and awareness organizations have sprung up everywhere. Is all this really decreasing their intake? Experts and studies conclude both sides of the story. Some feel that teens are more aware, and can see the effects that can happen, and are swaying from drug abuse. Others feel that nothing has really changed; teens are still using and experimenting. Some even feel teens learn too much by all the awareness groups, and can pick up new ideas through this. Most however, feel the awareness groups are reaching and helping those Another thing that irks students about teachers is that teachers can be too demanding. Students often wonder if the teachers know that they have other classes. Each teacher wants the students to spend a lot of time on the home work for each specific class. However, there isn't enough time to spend several hours on each subject ... Of course, a math teacher, for example, expects a student to spend an hour or more on their homework. But then, the other teachers come along and give their homework, test, term papers, oral reports, and many other things. The teachers say they understand that students have other classes, but they are still insistent on pouring on the work. Of course the student doesn't do all this homework because he is so burned out. It is too much to keep up with all the homework.

A third thing that irks students about teachers is that most teachers, if not all, like giving tests on Friday. They end up having two, three, or maybe four tests on a given friday. Having all the tests on fridays causes the students to go "crazy" Thursdays. The teacher probably wants to show as much information at the students as he does during the week. Then the teacher expects a student to be ready for a test. This also gives more support to the fact that teachers are too demanding.

In general, students and teachers get along well. However, some things that teachers do irk more than other teachers. These are the teachers whom are hard for the students to deal with. The more a teacher irks the students the more the students don't like teachers. If a teacher thinks they are always right, too demanding, and always gives tests on fridays, he or she will be a very unliked teacher.

Senioritis

We all eventually get it during some point during the year. What is "it", this is senioritis. This is not abnormal. So if you're a senior and have been affected by this epidemic, don't become alarmed, because over half the senior class has it.

As one gets closer and closer to that last day of high school, he becomes less and less motivated to open the text book every night. Instead, one finds other things to do with his time. Therefore, the student who was once studious, is no longer on top of everything. He now procrastinates until the very end, or simply does not do it.

The typical senior also finds it harder to wake up in the morning to make it to the first period of the day. Then, as the weather gets warmer toward the end of the year, one will find themselves lying on the beach instead of sitting in a classroom. The tardies and absences continue to increase more than ever before, but ones energy level keeps decreasing toward zero.

However, we somehow manage to make it through. Our grades may not be up to their normal standards, but at this point in time, life that is better than I could ever imagine. I have made new friends that I can really trust. I can honestly say that I miss her. Her friendship is one that I will remember for the rest of my life.

Just because one thing in your life goes wrong, don't give up; fight back! Everything will turn out for the best in the end. Most importantly, don't be blind about friendship. There are alot more caring people out there than you think.

"Legislative council is a great way for students who do not participate in A.S.B. to openly voice their opinions," said second semester president, Geoff Kelley. More and more people are becoming involved in legislative council. Legislative council consisted of one student from every second period class. The students were able to voice their opinions and discuss things of interest to the average student. The representatives presented information to their classes and asked for suggestions to improve the school's atmosphere in which we learn. First semester president was Chad Lems. Both Chad and Geoff were A.S.B. vice-presidents. In conclusion current president Geoff Kelley sums it up in saying, "the members of legislative council are close, relying on each other for doing a fine job."

Her favorite teacher was Dr. Foster and said about CSF," CSF is a great opportunity for students who want to succeed in high school. It is a great honor for me to be a seal bearer at graduation." Noell's future plans include attending COC for a Year then transferring to Cal Poly and majoring in Genetic Engineering. Through determination and hard work Noell has made high school great.

"There is a sort of comradery that could be expected from the miltary," says Michael.

Not enough outstanding students were recognized for their contributions to the student body. But that has changed. Senior Vanessa Tompkins was such a student. The members of math tutors came to Mr. Phillipp's class at lunch to help those students needing assistance. Because of math tutors Vanessa has had a chance to realize the value of helping others. She was also involved in CSF, National Honor Society, drama and the Madrigal choir. After graduation Vanessa plans on attending CSUN and majoring in Deaf Studies.

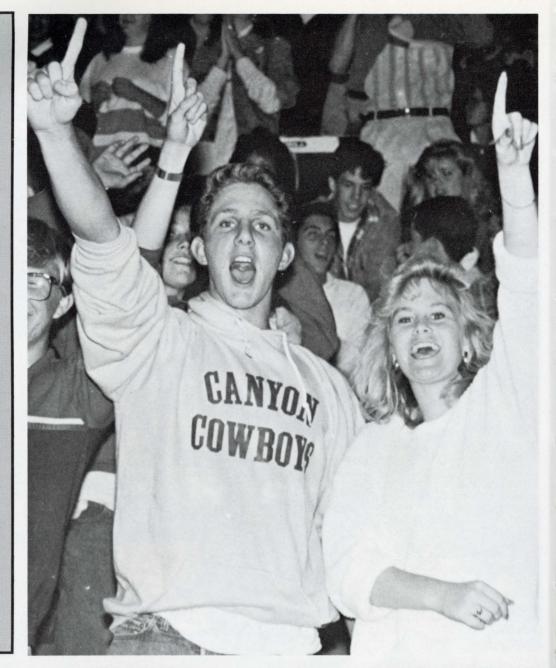

"Some students who had trouble with math, related better to their peers then they did to their teachers." This was the basic reason that Mr. Philipp created Math Tutors in 1985. At the beginning of the year Mr. Vincent was the group's advisor, then Mrs: Kreggar took over the job at the end of the year. A big asset to the organization was help from Jennie Arnold and Marni Phillips. Jennie describes the club as "a group of enthusiastic students who are proud of their school and aren't afraid to show their pride." Club members go to meetings and have special reserved seating for all sporting events. No one expected the tremendous success and bigger and better plans are being made for the future. They've Got Rhythm

8:00 A.M. an early August morning-while most students are still fast asleep the band begins a vigorous pre-season that takes them through the fall marching season. The music was straight out of West Side Story for the fall half-time show. Selections included Maria, Somethin' Coming, G. Officer Krupke, America and Somewhere. The march selection for the fall was Overseas. The band received second place at Frontier Days, Oxnard Tournament and Lancaster Christmas Parade. Soloists for the fall field show included Kate Oliver and Liz Clark.

The band fundraisers were most important because the band got new uniforms at the beginning of marching season. Band members sold candy bars, cheese and sausage, and millionaire games. The new uniforms enhanced the great performances.

The band officers were-president; Carrie

Marching to a different drum- Julie Hathaway, student conductor of band marched to a beat of her own. Julie's been in band for four years and plays a variety of instruments including flute, oboe and her favorite tenor saxophone. Last year Julie was the band's manager and received a service award for her efforts. Julie was also a major part of the jazz band and was a feature soloist in the group. Her duties as student conductor included conducting the band during the halftime show, taking the place of the drum major in his absence and helping out Mr. Gilpin in any way possible. She has left her future wide open for anything and says, "Being a 'bando' has made school a more enjoyable place to be."

A New Beginning

Advertising in the daily bulletin; that's how the flag team got their members. Enrollment in the class had been extremely low and Dr. White was threatening to cancel the class. Mr. Gilpin, who teaches the class, resorted to advertising for anyone even remotely interested in joining the team. With a little publicity the team became nineteen members strong and under captain, Jeanine Glancy, the girls placed second at the Hart Tournament, Camarillo Christmas Parade, and Lancaster Tournament. Another change in the team was the addition of Mrs. Howelman, from Sierra Vista. She coached the girls at after-school practices and accompanied them to competitions throughout the year Jeanine Glancy describes their new advisor as, "the experienced leadership that the team needed." The team consisted of Anna Capallad, Annette Costilla, Christina Fahlstrom, Dawn Famularo, Yvonne Gallegos, Jeanine Glancy, Melissa Gomez, Alicia Johns, Cathy Kenny, Angie King, Melanie McClain, Amy McCoy, Lorna Olsen, Pamela Rieger, Kathy Robinson, Maria Soria, Pam Temple, Lorie Towsley, and Jennie Zimmerman. In the middle of the fall season the girls got their new uniforms plus new banners. Not only looking great the teams season was great. Their captain said, "They have exceeded past the point of just basic skills to an experienced group which is able to compete against other flag teams. Going through all the changes and adjustments now makes the team look forward to a promising future."

Jeanine Glancy never expected to become Tall Flag and Banner captain. Last year she became co-captain, the previous captain moved away, making Jeanine the new captain. She started as a band member but due to scheduling problems she joined the flag team. The team has been through several changes this year and Jeanine has stood as their ever-helpful and caring leader. Along with co-captain, Maria Soria, Jeanine makes the half time routine and the winter floor show for second semester. Jeanine says, "The Tall Flag team members are like sisters." Religion is an important part of her life, as well as school. Jeanine is active in CSF, NHS and her church youth group. She plans to attend BYU and major in pre-dentistry and then become a dental hygientist. Good Luck Jeanine!

Striving For Excellence

"Drill Team is a great way for girls to show school spirit by being part of a performing group, representing the school, and having lots of fun." That's how Ms. Lambert describes her team. Members had to work hard, put in long hours of practice, be loval, and always strive for the best. This year was better than ever with captain, Jeri Emeterio, and co-captains, Donna Bernades and Janie Grandjean. The girls worked hard to raise money for their uniforms selling Valentine messages to See's suckers. Ms. Lambert feels the new uniforms seem to fit the type of competitive field shows they do. During the fall the Drill Team received several awards, including first at Frontiers Day, and second at Lancaster. The girls' relationship was very close. Ms. Lambert describes it as, "most girls are here for one reason, to perform, and to be sucessful." The girls did great and can look forward to a sucessful future.

Drill Team captain, a tough job with a lot of responsibility and Jeri Emeterio, who has been captain for two years, is a great example of leadership. Jeri has been on drill for four years and loved every minute. Jeri has received several awards for her solo performances but the one that meant the most to her was given to her by her teammates for best all-around Drill Team member. Even though this is her last year Jeri wants her goals for the team to carry on. She says, "I want our team to be number one!" Jeri's goals for the team have included each member working hard and doing their best all the time. Her most memorable moment on the team was when she became captain. Ms. Lambert sums up the feelings of all in saying, "She has certainly earned both the respect and admiration of her teammates with her beauty, personality and exceptional dance ability."

"Maximum involvement." that's what Heather Moran wanted and being a cheerleader for four years gave her all the "involvement" she could have ever hoped for. Heather has attended all cheerleading summer camps, receiving such awards as most outstanding freshmen cheerleader, 14 superior ribbons, and the Daily New's All-Star cheerleader for the '85 All-Star's football game. Heather describes her team as sisters; spending so much time together makes them very close. She says of her new advisor, "Miss Butler gives us very positive support and a lot of input." Heather's future plans include attending a U.C. university and majoring in microbiology. She would also like to continue cheerleading in college. Heather sums it up in saying, "it's a lot of fun a lot of work-and definitely rewarding."

Victory Leaders Say Hurrah For The Ones Who Lead Us To Victory

Representing our school in the community; a tough job which varsity cheerleaders don't take lightly. The girls started the year with a new advisor, who was also an ex-Canyon cheerleader herself. Miss. Butler and the girls met the day they left for summer camp. At camp they won an excellent pendant. The hard-working group was made up of Becky Bland, Kim Doughman, Dilyse Elliott, Samantha Jiron, Kelly Houston, Heather Moran, and Cyndi Yee. As Miss. Butler says, "All the girls contribute in their own special way. No one cheerleader is better than any other." Miss. Butler hasn't seen many changes since she was a cheerleader. But in those days rallies were mandatory and cheerleaders only cheered for male sports. Now the girls keep busy making up cheers and supporting all team sports. They feel being catergorized as airheads is unjust. Several of the girls excell in their studies. Junior Kim Doughman says, "The main reason I enjoy cheerleading is because it lets you get involved which makes Canyon a lot more fun!"

J.V. Cheerleaders Have A Spirited Year

G.P.A. of 2.0, teacher evaluation, clinics, and try-outs; all requirements to becoming a cheerleader. The cheerleaders practiced long hard hours preparing for pep rallies, making posters and supporting the athletic program. The junior varsity team consisted of Tracie Culberhouse, Ashley Driggs, Tracie Gottfried, Christine Thompson, Jodi Wertz, and Julie Yochim. All three teams attended a cheerleading camp during the summer and the J.V. team won a superior trophy. A combined effort from the J.V. and freshmen team earned them the camp's prestigious spirit stick. Several of the J.V. girls were on the freshmen team and look forward to joining the varsity team. As their advisor, Miss Butler says, "I think we can look forward to a great future."

First year in high school and making a great impression, freshmen cheerleaders made their first year a spirited one. The team included Shannon Curtis, Angela McFarlin, Julie Schecter, Jenny Swaner and Paula Joth. At the cheerleading camp the team won a most improved plaque and with combined efforts from the junior varsity, they earned the prestigious spirit stick. When asked to describe the relationship between the girls, Miss. Butler said, "Sure, they disagree with each other sometimes, but when class is over, the problem usually is too." The girls had an outstanding first year and Miss. Butler sums it up when saying, "The girls had a good time together and I had a good time with them."

Perfect Harmony Madrigal singers make the most of their musical talents.

"We sing and chant it," this year's Madrigal singers were better than ever. The Madrigals were beginning to get recognition and it was all thanks to choral director Mr. Guerrero. Mr. G as he is called, has been teaching for two years and has done a great job. Mr. Guerrero said, "the Madrigal singers are an auditioned top level choral performance group that requires as much talent, time dedication and commitment as any class or cocurricular activity." The twenty-two member group have taken their talents beyond campus performances. They went to various festivals including San Francisco's prestigious festival. They were one of 27 high schools chosen by audition to attend the annual Candlelight Procession at Disneyland. As for fundraisers the group has sold M&Ms, crystals, and candy bars. They also had a car wash and a pizza night. Madrigals is full of talent and promise.

Debbie said, "Madrigals has always been my favorite class and I'm really going to miss it." With her bubbly personality she quickly became close friends with people in the choir which were friendships, she said would last a lifetime. Debbie was the choir secretary her junior year and won the biggest "flirt" in choir. She feels she has learned a great deal from choir directors Mr Guerrero and Mr Scott. Debbie plans on attending college and continuing her music career, The music department will miss such great talent.

Treble and Girls' Choir

"Girls' choir is the best experience ever and its a great chance to meet new people," said freshman Angie King. Girls' choir consisted of 30 girls with high expectations. Said director Mr. Guerrero, "Girls' choir strives for improvement as better students and they had accomplished their goal."

Mr. Guerrero had started a new program called Treble Choir. This choir met every Thursday for 25 minutes at lunch. The 27 member group had gone on tour and received superior and excellent comments on their performances. Junior Michelle Henson said, "Treble Choir gave me a chance to experiment with different sounds and talents in music."

Christmas Melodies

The night was alive with music when the madrigal singers put on their annual Christmas concert. The concert included such well known classics as "Away In The Manager", "Christmas Lullaby" and "Silent Night". Every year alumni is invited to join the madrigals on stage to sing "Silent Night" and for the first time ever the madrigals invited Hart High School's Sound Vibrations to sing some selections with them. The madrigal girls performed "Precious Child" and soloists included Linda Breech, Leanne Jones and Debbie Tibbits. The choir was dressed in their concert outfits: black tuxedoes for the boys and black satin formals for the girls. In all, the lovely voices of the madrigal singers made it a night to remember.

Gifts of frankincense, gold and myrrh; the annual Christmas play brought royal "night visitore" to the multipurpose room. "Amahl And The Night Visitors" was the story of three kings traveling to Bethlehem to see the son of God. Along the way they stop for the night at the house of a lame boy and his poor mother. Debbie Tibbetts played Amahl, the crippled boy and Tracey Boobar played the young boy's mother. Todd Main, Joe Wall, and Mike Oliver played the three kings, with their courier Tracey McCloud. Fran Avila and Noelle Maller played the dancing shepards. Student directer was Leanne Jones while several madrigal singers played neighboring shephards. The play's "miracleous" ending added to the specitacle of the wonderful musical performance by the entire cast.

Choir Celebrating in Song

Fun times at Choir banquet.

"Music from Many Lands," the choral program has once again succeeded in creating the ultimate display of their talent. The first half of the program included the Madrigal singers, Treble Choir, and Girls' Chorus. A "chilling" band concert.

There was a chill in the air and music flowing through the soul. The symphonic band's winter concert combined the classics of "Masque" and the southern flavor of "La Bamba Vera Cruz." Other selections included "Sea Songs" and "Overture for Winds." Select members of the drill team performed and brought the house down. Jazz band soloists included Julie Hathaway, Steve Upton, Glenn Page, Kate Oliver, John Bartschi and Bryan Mears. The stage was "high tech" and the jazz was cool. The master of ceremonies was Mr. Luxmore (minus his beard). The evening was a musical extravaganza! Junior Liz Clark said, "Jazz Pop was a great experience that allowed students to hear some great music!"

Up Close

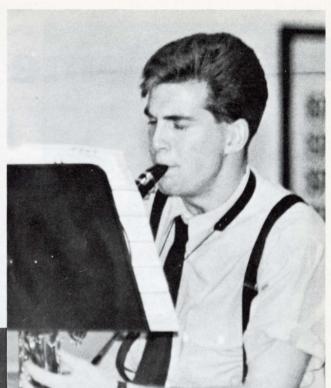

Four years of marching and jazz band; it took alot of dedication but senior John Bartschi did and loved the time spent enhancing his musical abilities. John played the trombone as well as the trumpet, french horn and clarinet. John describes jazz band as, "a combination of playing jazz music, learning improvization and competing at festivals." Jazz band, which met at 7:00 a.m. every morning before school, was under the direction of Mr. Gilpin. John said he respects Mr. Gilpin's talents as well as the effort put in by all. John enjoys competing against other schools and feels music enhances a person's education by teaching discipline. John plans on attending college and majoring in law and minoring in journalism. With John's dedication in the band's fundraisers as well as being vice-president he has been a major asset to band.

Here Come Video Workshop

The class of the eighties

The class of the 80's, video workshop, is a class in which students wrote, acted in, andproduced their own show. With the increasing popularity and intrest in the video market, the class seemed a perfect idea. Mr. Chalberg, the advisor, hoped his class would appeal to, "intelligent students with imaginations to match their intelligence."

Outstanding members of video workshop included Keith Houston, Chris St. Cyr, Tim Kohe, Eric Sanchez, and Corey Courthey. They worked long and hard showing great leadership qualities. This kind of class started at El Camino High around ten years ago, and Mr. Chalberg felt the class' future looks great.

The class was created when Mr. Chalberg wrote a course description, and the administration accepted it, and it was off to a great start. Future plans included included bringing back the weekly video update. Junior Tracy Nicholas sums it up saying, "It's a really cool class that was made for the eighties."

Drama Appreciation Society enjoys the live theatre.

A good appreciation for live theatre. That's what Mr. DeCoster wanted to give the members of Drama Appreciation Society and they received that and so much more. The group met weekly and went to live theatre performances including, "A Raisin in the Sun." They shared their love for drama and enjoyed the common interest they all shared. The group's advisor was English teacher Mr. DeCoster who felt every student should experience live theatre. Sophomore Karyn Levesque sums up the feeling of the members in saying, "To experience live theatre is wonderful! Drama Appreciation Society helps you appreciation how great the theatre is."

Drama Appreciation has got Cinnamon Varela; hook, line, and sinker. Although she has only been associated with the club for one semester she has strong opinions already formed. She feels experiencing the thrill of live acting is an important part of a person's life. Cinnamon feels the purpose of Drama Appreciation is to give students the opportunity to become more appreciative of the aspects of drama theatre.

Cinnamon's future plans include attending college and obtaining a degree in Linguistics. Cinnamon states, "Drama Appreciation is a life long experience and members within the group enjoy the experience and knowledge of drama." She has enjoyed this club and admires advisor Mr. Moos. Good Luck Cinnamon and keep trying to capture the good life. Reach for the stars!!

Finally someone's written an article about Kim MacDougall. Usually, it's Kim doing all of the writting, being editor of the Pony Express and author of the Signal's "Canyon Coral" section. Kim oversees the producing of the monthly newspaper and she says the hardest part of the job is having to tell someone their story's bad. A.S.B. voted to have Kim write the Signal article which puts alot of pressure on her to keep parents, as well as, students well informed of activities on campus. Kim recently came to our school and says "I love Canyon. The people are really nice and it's easy to make friends." Kim's future plans include attending college and getting into a communication based career.

"A class that prodces the school newspaper, which requires demanding work and in which every member takes a certain amount of pride in what they do." That's how Mr. Dubin described his class, The Pony Express. The Pony Express was the monthly school newspaper which tried to keep students aware of all school happenings. As the year draws to a close, students want to keep lasting memories of the friends they've made. So the Last Round-up comes through providing students with an autograph book. This was a book of pictures comprised by the Last Round-up staff over the year. The book has been published every spring since 1972 and photography teacher, Mr. Chalberg, has been the advisor since the very beginning. The majority of the photographs were taken by the staff, candidly catching students who seemed to make interesting subject matter. The Last Round-up is a unique publication shot, pasted, printed and bound entirely on campus. The staff was a dozen strong, meeting during first period everyday. Although the staff was small, the book was completed on time with the same efficiency as in years past. The editors were Chris Bitsakos and Robert Patterson.

Finally we bring you the people who put in long hours of hard work to make your memories become a reality to cherish for years. Making a book of memories wasn't an easy task. Photographers printed pictures, copy writers wrote stories and editors hounded their people to meet deadlines. The advisor was Ms Erhardt who guided and encouraged students to make this year's book the best ever. Editor-in-chief, Glenn Page came up with the award winning theme "Capture the good life" and with his supurb leadership made this yearbook one to cherish.

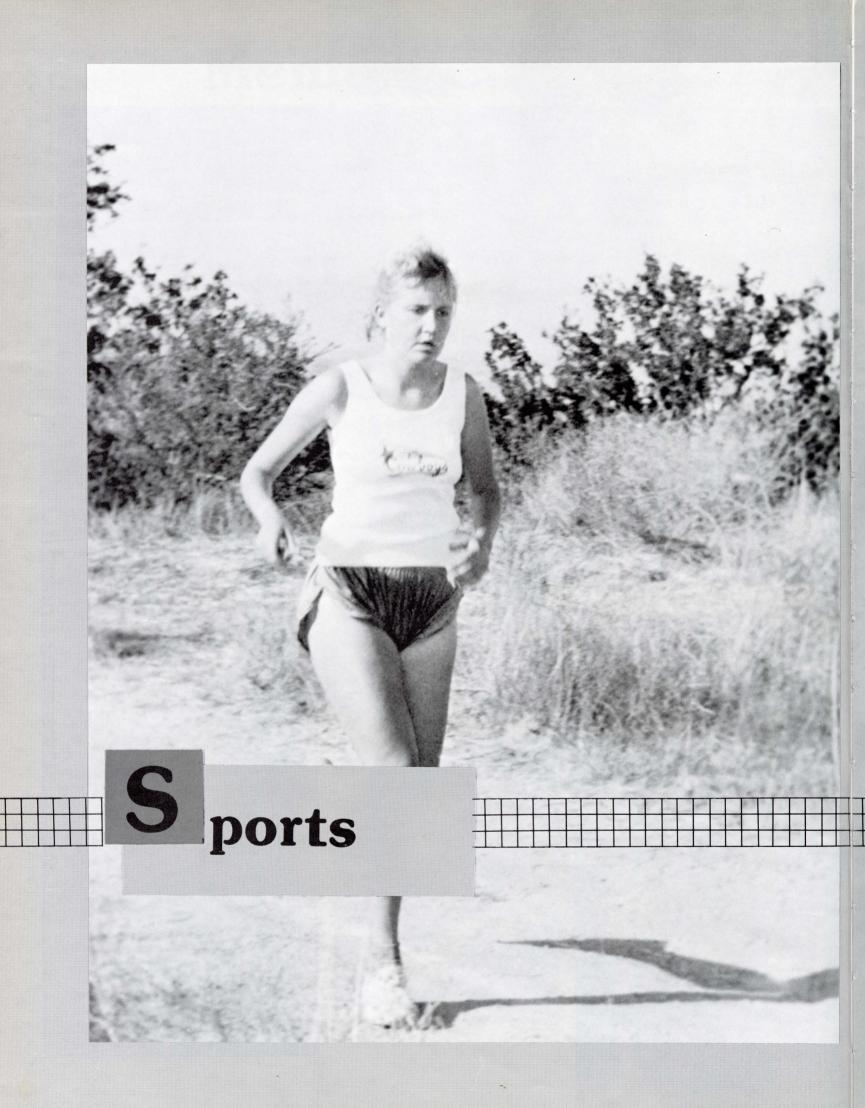

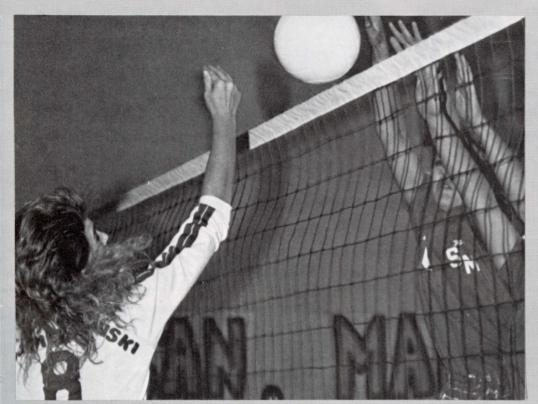

Do you often wonder how the yearbook becomes so unique? It takes a good staff and teacher; but most of all it takes a well qualified Editor-in-chief. The person responsible for this memorable masterpiece is Glenn Page.

Glenn has been in yearbook for four years. In that time he has learned a great knowledge of yearbook, and good management skills, "An editor needs to be very diplomatic, and it is my responsibility to produce a quality yearbook."

Band, Jazz, and N.H.S. are other activites this busy guy was involved in. This dedicated senior attended yearbook camp last summer, and recieved first place for best yearbook theme. Over 80 students participated.

Glenn highly commends yearbook teacher Ms. Erhardt, "We have known each other for four years, and we understand each others goals and expectations. She has a unique talent." After graduation Glenn plans to attend college, and recieve a degree in business.

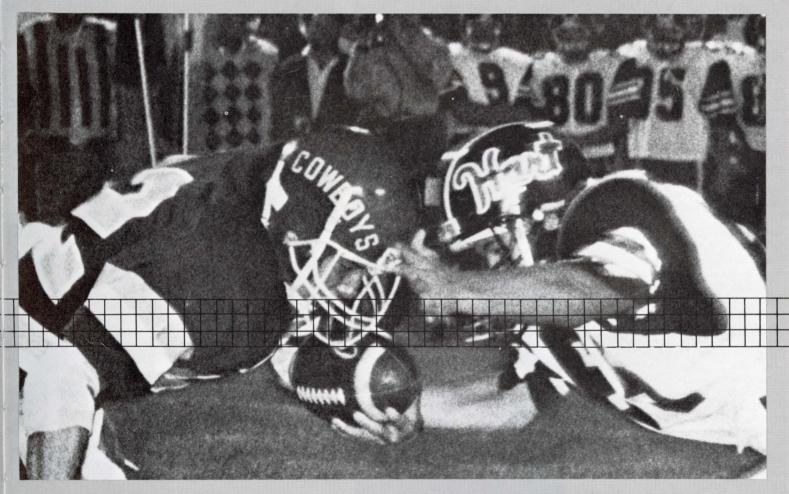

Once used as a training method for wartime battle, sports, throughout the years, have undergone some major changes.

As more peaceful times came about, the need for such training became obsolete, and the methods were then used for entertainment. The Olympics were formed to test the athletes abilities and allow them to compete with their peers.

The sports of today are still very competitive and allow them to compete with other athletes on their equal level while doing something beneficial and constructive.

There are rough and tough sports like football, basketball, tennis, and track and field events that require both mental and physical endurance.

No matter what sport, teamwork and moral support is the base for success.

Varsity football, was it really the pride of our high school? The answer is yes. Where else do you find 10,000 screaming high school fans at every footbal game? Only at our school. Every Friday, students would pile into the stadium to watch the best team in the Southern Section play.

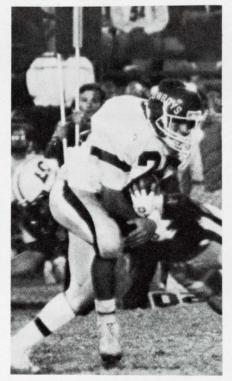

But, on a sad note, the excitement couldn't continue forever. The varsity team suffered its first loss in a previously unbeaten, forty-six game winning streak. The loss, handed to the team, and the rest of the student body, by Antelope Valley.

Going into the season, everyone knew that the team was number one. Against Hart the team proved that. The final score: 42-32. We were the best in the Santa Clarita Valley. The rest of the season was a winning season, up until that cold night in Antelope Valley.

The season, in a way, was very successful for the team and school. It brought more publicity this year than any other. Ten years from now, long after the score has been forgotten, we will remember the excitement of witnessing some of the finest football ever played.

Again, the team lost, but it wasn't the same as A.V. They had lost to a better team.

Making Their Mark

The sophomore team held nothing back as they came out of the season with a Goldon League championship under their belts. The only lowpoint they encountered was that first game of the season when they lost to Hart, 32 to 12. From then on, the Cowboys won the rest of their games and started league play with a lot of energy and confidence. They beat all of their opposing teams with a total of only 16 points against them. They blasted the first three teams they faced, two of which were complete shutouts On their fourth game, they came up against Antelope Valley and won the game in the last two minutes by a pass from Ricky Gombos to Chris Hauser.

The final game of the season was against Palmdale and the Cowboys walked away with a 47 to 6 victory and the Goldon League championship. Many of the players received awards for their outstanding performances. Most valuable offensive and defensive players were Chris Eddy and John Bietsch. Receiving awards for being team captains were Rick Gombos and Robby Caulfield, and for outstanding special teams player was Matt Watkins. Finally, a special award known as the "Cowboy Beef Award," was given to Rick MeKeon the "Little Refrigerator." Congratulations sophomores for a job well done. The freshmen football team really showed us what they could do this season. Losing their first game to Hart proved only to be a minor stumbling block compared to the number of wins they would have throughout the season. Led by quarterback and team captain, Tim Beidle, the Cowboys battled there way through pre-season with a record of 2 wins and 3 losses. The last of which sparked the beginning of their 5 game winning streak.

The first league game of the year was against Saugus. We had no problem beating this cross-town rival along with the next three teams they were to play. The fourth game of the season against Antelope Valley was supposed to be the toughest game of the year. This game proved only to be the best game of the season beating the Antelopes, 21 to 14. The Cowboy's last game of the Goldon League was against Palmdale who were undefeated and only allowed 16 points against them all year. The Cowboys played a good game but lost it in the second half.

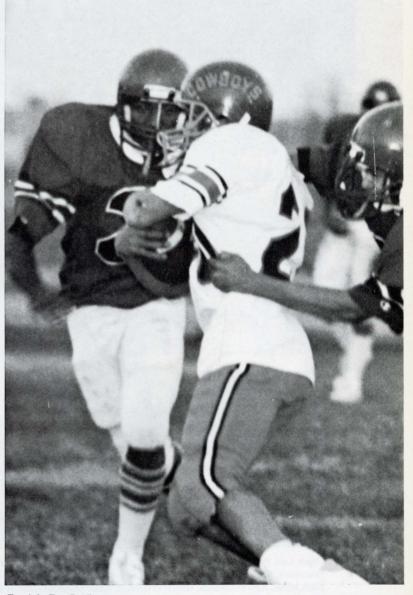

The Cowboys had a great season and introduced a lot of talented players. Receiving awards for most valuable offensive and defensive players were Vince Nevieux and Eric Hanes. Clint Beauer received an award for Cross Country was not a season based on win or loss, rather a learning experience. Both varsity teams had the youngest teams in current school history. This years boys varsity team consisted of one senior, Glen Munn, also the captain of the team, one junior, Nathan Minzey, four sophomores, Keith Meter, Kyle Frauntnick, Kevin Frautnick, and the 1986 Golden League Champion Mike Rattary. Also making the varsity team were three freshman, John Serrano, Lee Cohen, and Manny DeLeon.

On the girls side, there were two seniors, Jenni Bassett and Renee Bunning, two juniors, Laurie Spears and Rosanna Hersh, one sophomore, Maria Romero, and six freshman, Me-

It was the year for history making. The boys varsity team made it to the 4-A division C.I.F. preliminaries for the first time in school history.

The C.I.F. 4-A division is the toughest division in the Southern Section of the California Interschoolastic Federation. The girls, on the other hand, made it to the C.I.F. 3-A preliminaries for the second straight year, which also made school history. Even though they all had good races as a whole, it was more like prepping for the future.

On the lower divisions, our junior varsity team looked good at all meets to show an even brighter side to the future. During the Mt. San Antonio Invitational, our boys freshman team took 3rd place out of 15 teams. Winning that race, comming down from the varsity team, was Lee Cohen who ran to become the third fastest freshman in the schools history.

Really, this years teams had their summer training to explain for their success. This summer had the best turnout ever. That is why it was no surprise to the rest of Southern California and the Southern Section that this Cross-Country team was a force to be reckoned with.

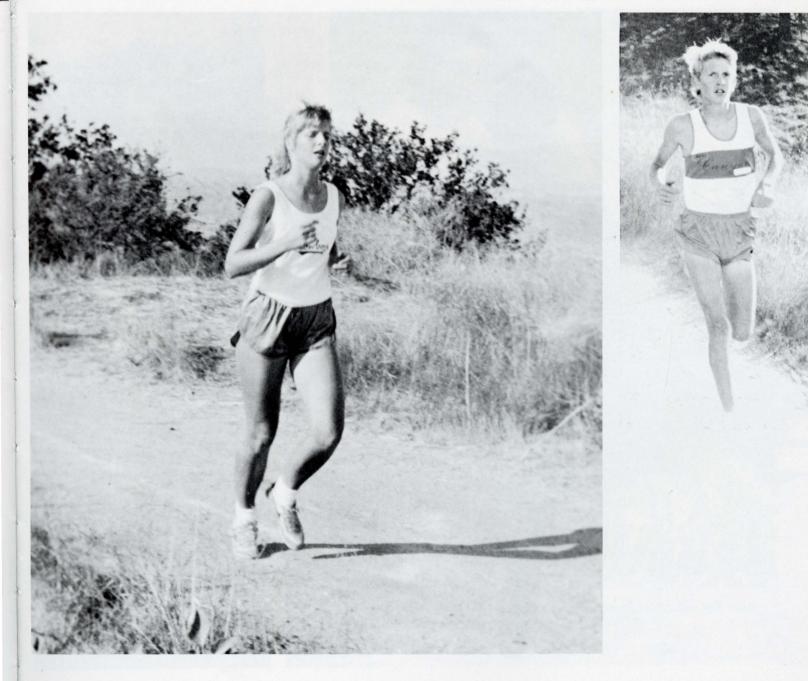

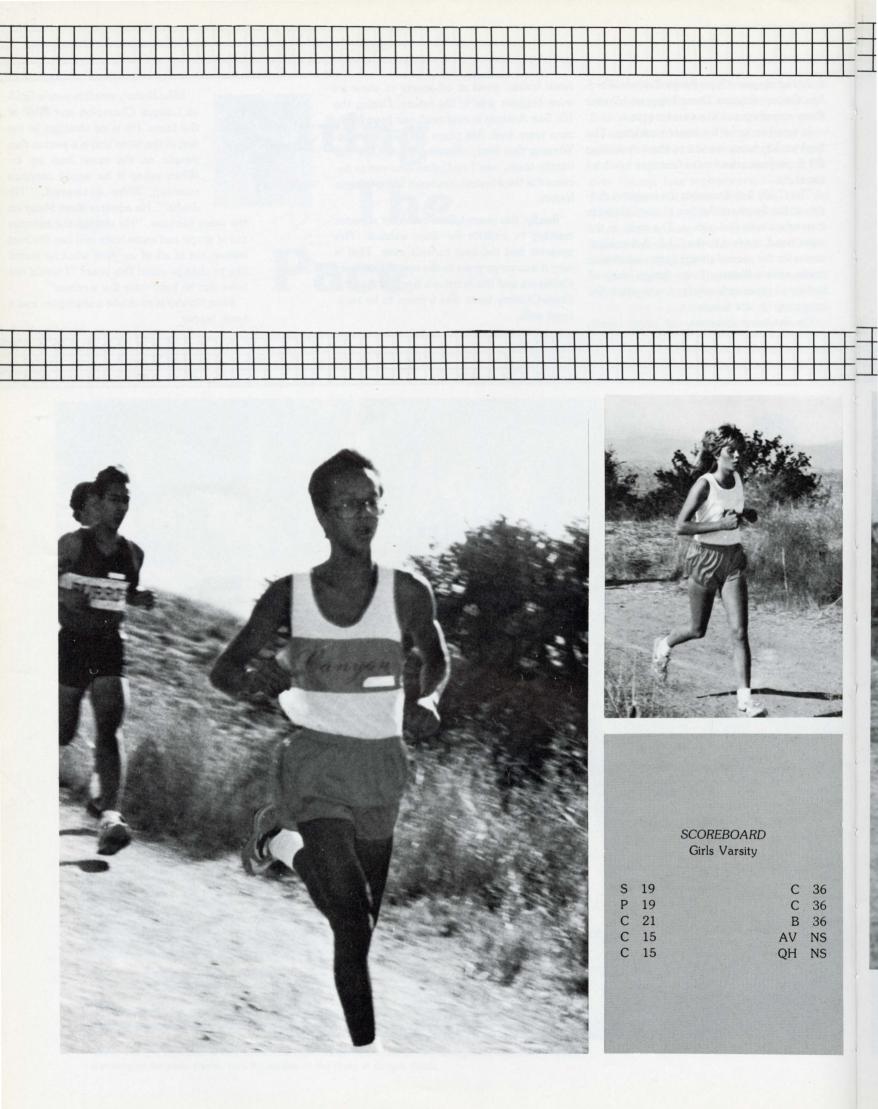

Mike Rattary was this year's Golden League Champion and MVP of the team. He is no stranger to the rest of the team and is a person that people on the team look up to. When asked if he would continue running, Mike answered, "No doubt!". He admires Keith Meter on the team because, "He started the summer out of shape and came back and had the best season out of all of us. And what he would like to change about this year? "I would not have run so hard over the summer".

Mike Rattery is no doubt a champion and a team leader.

Jennie Bassett was this year's girls' team captain and MVP of the team. Her senior year was one of her best on the Cross-Country team. When asked who her favorite coach was over her four years, she said, "Coach Heald, Coach Lindberg and Coach Chaidez have all helped me a lot in my four years at Canyon".

Does Jenni want to continue after high school? "Yes, for myself, not for competition."

In general, Jenni summed up the year as being a good one even though it was a rebuilding season.

David Westfield was a junior on the varsity soccer team and is the top scorer in the entire league. David feels he did well this year. "I got a lot of people looking at me." When asked if he considered himself a team leader, he said yes. "A team leader should take control, be a pretty good player, and have lots of people like the way you play so they'll follow you." From his team, David most admires Johnny Jackman. "Whenever we're down, he pumps us up. He never lets anything get him down."

David said that if he could go back to the beginning of the year and change something, it would be to have more training. "We didn't train that much and the coach didn't spend enough time with us."

David really wants to continue playing soccer in the future and, as for college, he hopes to get some scholarships.

Michele said that if she could change something that happened in the year, it would be to help Julie Taich with her problems. "Try to prevent her from committing suicide."

Overall, Michele proved to have an outstanding year and left us with something valuable to remember. "It doesn't matter how tall you are, our top three scorers were the three shortest on the team."

They won the Golden League Championship for the second time in the last three years, only losing one meet in that time. Karen Myers, who scored more individual points than anyonein the entire league led the team this year. Karen competed in the triple jump, long jump, shot put, and disc throw. She also set a new school record in the triple jump and was the Golden League champion in the disc throw.

Another outstanding performer for the Cowboys was Cindy Byrne, who won the Championship in the 100 meter and 300 meter hurdles.

The boy's track team had a terrific year finishing up the season with a 3-2 record and a third place in league. The 400 meter relay team of Cory Harrold, Cam Cross, Trevor Doyle and Chris Perry set their season best at 44.1 seconds against Palmdale. A major highlight of the season was when Kurt Fethke jumped 6'8'' at the league finals. He's only the second athlete to ever go to the state meet. This is a great accomplishment. Other players who contributed to the teams success were Mike Rattery, Glenn Munn, Lee Cohen, Kevin Frauntnick, Kyle Frauntnick, John Serrano, Doug Ravasdy and many more.

"This season I did better than I ever expected in high jump." Kurt Fethke, a senior and member of the boy's track team, accomplished exactly what he wanted this season by making it all the way to the state finals."I never thought that my setting the school record, tieing the Golden League record at 6' 8", and going all the way from CIF preliminarys to the California state track finals would be accomplished, it had only been a dream." Kurt says that the motivating force behind his jumping is due to coach Greg Hayes. "It is his time and dedication that has helped me tremendously in going as far as I did this season."

Kurt has always, since he was little, wanted to participate in a sport on the college level. "With my success this season, I have a good chance of being on the track team at U.C.L.A. That, if it happened, would be another dream come true."

What team on campus had a very succesful season? Girls volleyball, of course. For the third consecutive year, this years team won the Golden League Championship. They also went to the semi-finals of the 3-A division of the California Interscholastic Federation for the first time in school history.

They seemed to dominated every team they played. With such great players as Jennifer Pinkerton, Stacy Miller, Shannon Miller and Debbie Phillips, it was no accident for their great success.

The varsity team has a lot to look forward to in the future. There were some underclassman on the team which showed a great outlook for the future. Perhaps an unprecendented fourth Golden League title and a C.I.F. Championship may be just around the corner.

Jennifer really looks up to her coach, Mrs. Masters, because she knows alot about the sport and pushes the girls hard without having to always yell at them. "If I could go back to the beginning of the year and change something I would want to be able to understand and play the sport better. I also want to be a smarter player, and understand the rules of the game," says Jennifer.

Intense concentration, that was the ticket to an awsome season and a Golden League championship. This season the team had more fan support than ever before. The loud chants of "Stu., Stu., ..." could be heard throughout the gym whenever Stuart Sayre came down with a rebound. Or when a Cowboy was at the line, fans would wave their arms in the air as sort of a ritual to help the team. This type of support helped the team attain their spirit and determination.

packed games against such teams as Cresenta Valley and Saugus let to Cowboy basketball power.

Excellent playing by such players as Greg Paskwietz, who was a scorer in the Southern Section and the Golden League, and Stuart Sayre, who was a top rebounder in the league, to their success. Their leadership and disipline were the ultimate roots to the team.

There were also many other noteable prformances by Jeff White, Larry Albritton, and Andy Boron.

Once again, the basketball team set the pace for the Golden League competition.

Stuart Sayre is a senior on the varsity basketball team. When asked what he thought of the school's sports program, he said it was excellent. Stuart did say, though, that there was a sport that was missing from the program and that was boy's vollyball. "Maybe someday soon."

From his team, Stuart most admires Greg Paskwietz. "He's able to come through in hard situations because he's good."

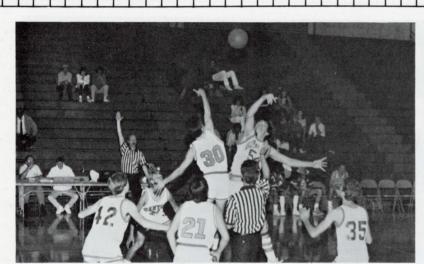

When asked if he considered himself a team leader, he said yes. "A team leader is someone who sets a good example and does what the coach says. If your looked up to as a leader, then your naturally followed."

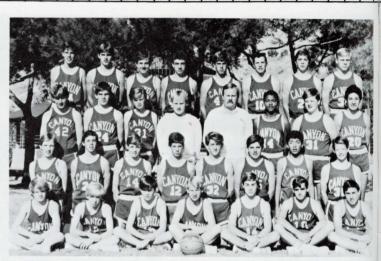

Stuart says that if he could change something that happened in the year, it would be to beat Burroughs. "They were our biggest threat this year."

Stuart wants to give a special thanks to coach Hayes for three years of good leadership, strong influence, and a supportive role model.

Just Putting Along

The 1987 golf team started off slowly, but had a strong finish as it defeated cross town rival, Saugus, in the final match of the year. The young team was led by its most valuable player, Sophomore Carrie Leary. Carrie, the only girl in the league, finished eighth individually and qualified for the C.I.F. Girls' individual tournament. In a three way practice match with Hart and Saugus, Carrie finished second among the eighteen boys who participated. Sophomore Brandon Meyers was selected as the team's most improved player, and he made significant contributions throughout the year and should be among the league's top players next year.

Junior Dan Stegall also had a strong final round and had the second low score among the forty-two players. Dan should also be a contender for an individual C.I.F. bid next year. Our young players were supported with the leadership and maturity of three Seniors. David Nash and Chris Zemojtel were members of the team for four years and both contributed to what Coach De Coster called a "very satisfying year." Ralph Baltau did not play until his Senior year, but his sense of humor "made some of those long bus rides enjoyable".

"I think our team did really well."

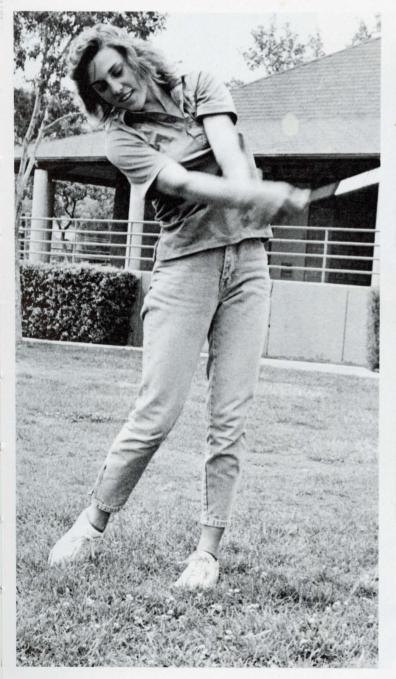

Carrie Leary is a sophomore on the golf team and she said that one word to describe this season would be

"fun." "I can't think of anything I would change from this year. Maybe I would practice a little bit harder but I couldn't have asked for a better team or a better coach."

From her team, Carrie most admires Skip Baltau and David Nash. "First is Skip Baltau because no matter how terrible he played, he had a great attitude. The other is David Nash because while the rest of the team was having a social hour, David would be out on the green working on his game."

Carrie says that she does plan on playing golf until she's a senior. "Hopefully I'll get some type of a college scholarship so all this golf won't be wasted."

When talking about her favorite coach, Rocket, Reena says that he is a coach that people feel really encouraged by. "He wants to help and he can coach." He's also very supportive." Reena feels that f everyone on her team could have gotten along better, they would have had better team work.

Next year, Reena wants to help her team more during the game and motivate them to do better. "I want to be able to fire the team up and get them into the games."

With such talent as Katie Mortimer and Liz Luetsher, this team fared very well. Also, the teams of Bridget Sanchez and Stacy Smith had excellent seasons competing at the varsity and junior varsity levels. Another great team was the team of Dawn Clelland and Kathy Illera, who played on the varsity squad all season.

Rest assured,he still made the catch. Pitcher Rod Markonovich, was the only pitcher to defeat the aggressive Saugus team with his distructive slow pitch. Steve Mann, Scott Vanness, and Rod Baltau also made very important contributions to the success of the season.

The frosh soph team ended the season with a 2nd place in the Golden League standings.

They Lead The Way

Who are those special people who devote most of their time and energy to teaching the youth of this school the wonderful world of sports. Yes, you guessed it, the coaches. These talented men and women have been working so hard to keep their teams successful in winning and gaining glory without getting much recognition at all." This time we're letting the coaches get a little glory and a chance to tell how they feel about what they do.

"Winning is not a high priority, making every effort to do the best one can, is."

Mr. Welch, the varsity football coach, first got interested in coaching high school football when he was asked to coach by someone he respected. Mr. Welch says that he loves the people here and plans on coaching next year and further into the future. At this time, coach Welch said he wouldn't want to coach any other sport, but, when asked if he would coach college he said, "If they made me an offer I couldn't refuse."

Mr. Welch feels that being himself is the most important aspect of coaching his players. He thinks of himself as a demanding coach and does feel that his players respect him. When asked what his favorite part of coaching high school football was, Mr. Welch said, "the numerous challenges."

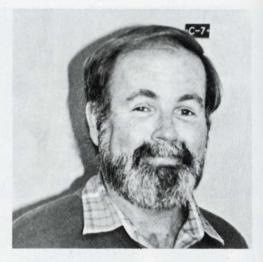

"I consider myself a fair coach."

Mrs. Masters, the head coach for varsity volleyball, feels that treating her players fairly and respecting them works best when shes coaching.

When asked if her players respected her , Mrs. Masters said, "Very much. I work hard at it."

Mrs. Masters' favorite part about coaching volleyball at this school is the people. "Watching them mature, develop, and providing a role model— trying to influence them positively and help them see high goals."

Coach Masters does plan on coaching volleyball next year and further into the future. When asked if she would coach volleyball at a college, she said, "It depends on what went along with the coaching position."

"Golf at Canyon is a challenge because so few students are interested in the game."

Mr. DeCoster started coaching the golf team after he got hooked on the sport from the former golf coach. He says that in the four years that he has coached here there has never been an arguement, fight, or disagreement. "Golf is still a pure sport."

Coach DeCoster says that golfis a mental game as well as a physical. "I try to make the golfers realize they are not bad people just because they play a bad round of golf."

Mr. DeCoster considers himself both a hard and lenient coach. "I do demand that thegolfers put forth their best effort."

When asked if he felt his players respected him, coach DeCoster said yes. "Some may be better golfers, but I think they realize I am in charge."

"I think it's important to do your best. Winning isn't as important as competing well."

Mr. Gravett coached the boys' tennis team. He first became interested in coaching because he thought it would be interesting and rewarding." I enjoyed my high school athletic experiences."

Mr. Gravett's favorite part of coaching tennis is seeing the boys improve their skills, enjoy the team camaraderie, and mature into considerate young men.

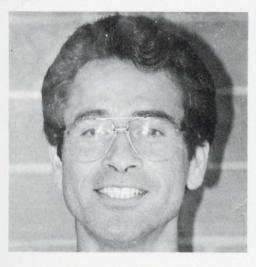

Consideration of athletes as individuals with individual differences, being organized and prepared, and being fair are the techniques that coach Gravett feels work best when coaching his team.

When asked what coaches he most admires, Mr. Gravett said his high school basketball coach. "He had a great influence on me. I also respect some college tennis coaches and their techniques."

If offered a coaching position at a college, coach Gravett said he probably wouldn't take it. "I enjoy being at Canyon."

Mr. Chaidez, the cross-country coach, started coaching high school cross-country because of the student pressure. Coach Chaidez feels that there are four basic techniques involved in coaching his team and those are desire, discipline, dedication and determination. What interests him most about crosscountry is that the distance runners are such hard achievers.

When askedif he used or admired any other coaches techniques, Mr. Chaidez said, "Not really, my techniques are the results of my own and other accomplished distance runners."

Mr. Chaidez says that his favorite part about coaching high school cross-country is CIF competition. Coach Chaidez plans to continue coaching next year and further into the future.

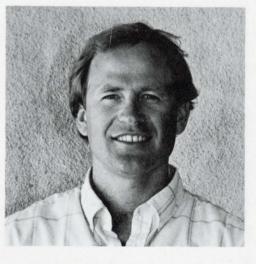

Mr. Heald, head track coach, first became interested in coaching high school track while working with athletes that had the same interests as his in that sport. "Trying to develop to the fullest potential."

Coach Heald says that the teaching, school atmosphere and the sports program interest him most about this school. His favorite part about coaching track is the rewards and inner peace the athletes are able to achieve.

Concerning winning or losing a game, coach Heald feels that the effort put forth in the contest by each individual competition is more important than the outcome.

Mr. Heald feels he has been a lenient coach with his players and when asked if he planned on coaching next year he said, "No, I have retired."

"Any coach who doesn't have the respect of his players shouldn't be coaching."

Mr. Bost, assistant varsity football coach, says what interests him most about high school football is the new challenges that develop year after year.

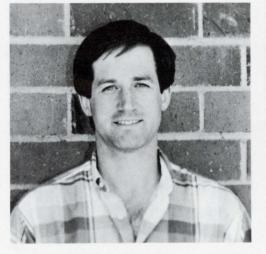

"Your goal is to do the best you can and be proud of your performance."

Coach Bost's favorite part about coaching football is to see a student put into practice a technique that took many long and hard hours to develop.

When asked if he considered himself a hard or lenient coach, he said he wouldn't limit himself to one of these labels. My goal is to prepare the player to perform to a level that he can be proud of."

Coach Bost first became interested in coaching high school football because of his past experiences. "I enjoyed the sport as a player and thought it only natural to coach when I chose teaching as a profession." Mr. Hayes felt that it was more important to lose a great faught game rather than win a bad game. "I want my guys to enjoy the battle— enjoy the competitiveness of the 4th quarter of a championship game, or any game."

When asked if he felt his players respected him, coach Hayes said yes. "Usually to the degree that I respect them."

"A good coach never stops learning so that he can educate his players."

Mr. Hammond, the varsity baseball coach, says what interests him most about high school baseball is success through winning and winning attitudes. He says that it's important to make the players feel that they are all equal and that developing character is very important.

As for winning, coach Hammond says it might not be important, but it beats the heck out of anything that comes in second.

Mr. Hammond started coaching after his playing days were over due to a serious injury. "Thelove for the sport continued. I wanted to use my knowledge to coach young athletes."

When asked what his favorite part about coaching baseball was, coach Hammond said, "To see young athletes execute to perfection the fundamentals they have been taught."

"Winning is not the most important thing, competing and striving to do your best is."

"The goal in all competitive games is to win, but how an individual achieves that goal ... is just as important."

Ms. Holomon, girls' varsity tennis coach, likes coaching because it gives her the opportunity to work with a high skilled group and develop their talents in a competitive situation. "I try to encourage each athlete with a positive approach."

Coach Holomon said her techniques tend to change from year to year because she has to decide what is best for this years athletes, teams and herself. "Firm but fair is the basic concept I tend to follow."

When asked if she'd like to coach any other high school sport, Ms. Holomon said, "It would be fun to have a fencing team and perhaps if the sport becomes more popular, it may be possible."

Coach Holomon said that each athlete should compete against herself by trying to improve her previous performance. "As a coach, I try to develop the athletes talent to her fullest potential so that she can be successful."

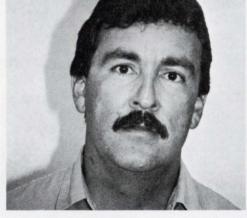

"I'm teaching the sports that I enjoy playing to other people."

Coach Collins, Rocket, coaches girls' basketball and softball and does so because he likes to see people get better, not only in the sport, but also in life.

When asked if he felt his players respected him, Rocket said ves. "Because I respect them.'

Rocket feels that winning is more fun than losing, but its not the most important thing. "Knowing you did the best you could, giving 100% effort is more important."

Rocket says that there are other coaches that he admires but he tries to be what he should and not what anyone else is. "I like to take bits from several coaches."

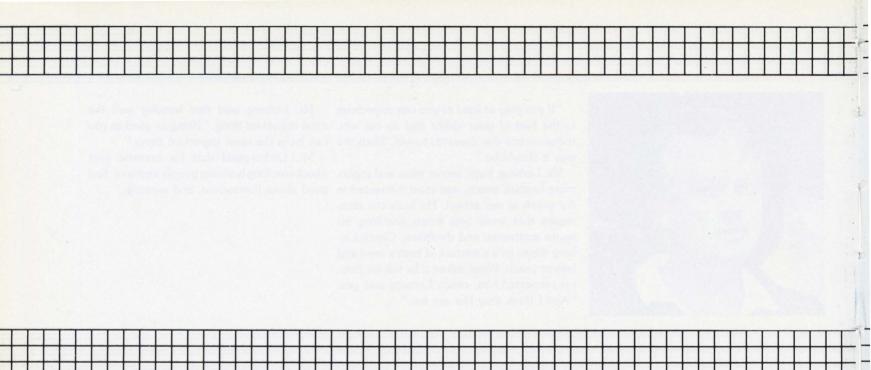

"I enjoy watching the players develop the skill and confidence to succeed in difficult situations."

Mr. Trevino is the girls' softball coach. He says he would like the chance to coach varsity baseball as head coach. "I've been an assistant."

Caoch Trevino said that he admires most coaches. "It's a difficult, time-consuming job, but I try to borrow from those who have successful programs."

Trevino says that developing confidence and character are the things he considers most important. "They are certainly achieved much more easily through winning than losing. Winning is a prerequisite to this goal."

Coach Trevino says what interests him most about this school's sports is the challenge to improve an already successful program. interested in coaching with his own experience with high school athletics. "The positive influence of my own coaches created this interest."

"Playing your best is what is important. If that's not enough, then what can you do?"

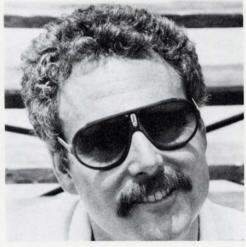

Mr. Rode is the freshmen football coach and his favorite part of coaching the team is being involved with the program and seeing the players be successful.

Mr. Rode really admires the techniques of coach Welch. "He has a knack for getting the most out of his athletes."

Coach Rode feels that teaching the fundamentals and demanding that the players work to the best of their abilities works best when coaching his team.

Coach Rode never played football, but was always interested in the sport. "I worked as a sports writer covering football games for many years."

When asked what interests him most about Canyon football, he said, "It is a very successful and rewarding experience."

Mr. Newman, the swim coach, says his favorite part about coaching high school swimming is, "seeing kids do well."

When asked if he felt winning awas the most important thing, coach Newman said, "As long as kids do well, it doesn't make any difference to me."

Coach Newman first became interested in coaching high school swimming because of swimming and playing water polo in college. He feels the technique that works best when coaching his team is, "Inflicting pain."

Coach Newman said that he wouldn't like to coach any other high school sport but he does plan on coaching swimming next year and further into the future.

The learning experience! It has been said that education is the key to mobility and freedom. The educational program of our school is quite exceptional, with a broad variety of classes for all variations of learners. Not only does our educational system have a variety of classes, but there are many degrees of classes; ranging from remedial to the illustrious A.P. program. The academics are the most vital part of any high school, because it is the foundation for either college bound students or students going into the job field. Math science, history, English, the fine arts, and technical programs are the keys to a wellrounded education, and the success of the students.

Science And The New____ Generation

Science is a subject that the world could not live without. It is possible for any student to become a scientist, but it takes hard work and effort. If a student has set his goals on becoming a scientist, the best course to start out with is CP Biology.

Mr. Frank Diaz, one of the science teachers here at Canyon, teaches both CP Biology and Advanced Biology. Mr. Diaz feels that the Biology courses are tough and not every students has the potential of "A" work. He said, "Not everyone has the aptitude for science, but by taking courses in science they can learn a great deal."

Some students may be concerned about the danger factor. If you are worried about useing dangerous materials, don't be. No one has ever, in Mr. Diaz's career, been hurt in the lab. The only time when students work with dangerous materials is in independant study biology were some students work with Auxins (plant hormones). Some Auxins are poisonous, but the teacher is always present when using dangerous substances.

Science is not, as some people believe, a boring subject. Students must be alert at all times to make sure nothing goes wrong with their experiment. Experiments are the best part in science, especially when experimenting with living organisms. Science is mainly for serious students who want to learn more about the world and themselves.

A Lesson in Culture

Do you remember in the eigth grade how you felt when you learned you would probably have to take two years of a foreign language in order to graduate? You thought you could never pass a foreign language because it would be too hard. But, when you got to your class the first day, you found out that it wouldn't be as hard as you thought. The people who happened to get Mrs. Franco not only found out that it wouldn't be hard, but it would also be a lot of fun.

Mrs. Julie Franco is a new teacher here at Canyon High. She has taught language for seven years in both public and private schools, and she enjoys teaching here at Canyon very much. She likes being around teenagers (even though most of them are taller than she is) and especially enjoys making her classes laugh. She first thought about teaching foreign language in the ninth grade when she fell madly in love with her foreign language teacher.

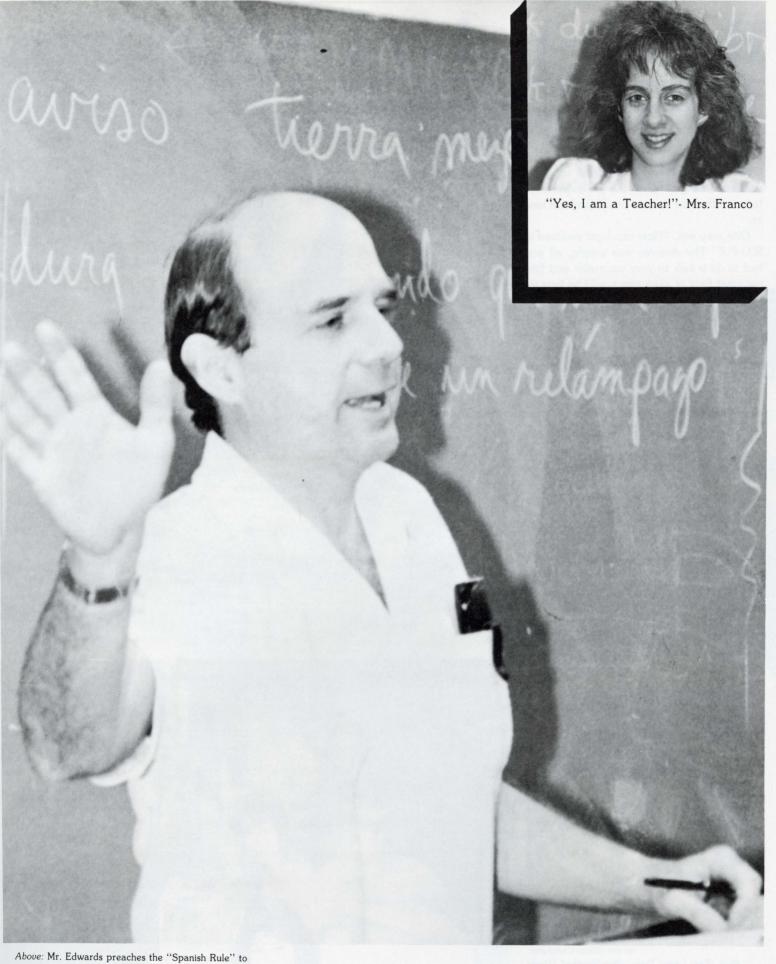

She feels that a foreign language is a very hard thing to master, especially the way it is taught in America. Mrs. Franco feels it is better to live in the country that speaks the language rather than sitting down for an hour a day and trying to learn the language. At the same time, if a student wanted to master a language while staying in his home country, they should have at least four years of study. She also feels that for most students a foreign language will probably not benefit them in the future.

R.O.P.-Today's Advantage

If you were to walk up to any student on campus here at school and ask if they knew what R.O.P. was, they probably would have no idea what it is. R.O.P. is the Regional Occupational Program, designed to guide students into getting on the job experience for a job that the student would preform best at.

One may ask, "How can I get involved in R.O.P.?" The Answer was simple, all you had to do is talk to your counselor and find out what field of work you would be best in. Many students enroll in R.O.P. courses, and many of them go on to have well paid jobs. Not only do you get experience, you also get paid for on the job time as well as credits towards graduation.

Most subjects are taught at night, at other locations than school, and that discourages a lot of people. But, to some people's surprise, there are a few subjects taught at school. These subjects include Offset Lithography, taught by Mr. Gary Lindberg, Advanced Floristry, taught by Mrs. Kathe Sherrill, and Word Processing, taught by Mrs. Jeanette Ambrose in the afternoon, and Mr. Larry Hawk in the evening. Even if the subject is taught away from school, it is never very far to travel, for example, Cosmetology is taught at Canyon Country Beauty and Animal Care is taught at Magic Mountain.

R.O.P. is a great opportunity for high school students. It opens the doors to a career early in life, and gives the serious high school student a good head start in the business world.

Looking for Books?

Where can a student go to study the most recent and interesting materials? THE LI-BRARY!

Today's students are spending more time in the library because of the large selection of many different kinds of books. From non-fiction to fiction, to books on Literature, Biography, History, Technology, pure science, and the arts.

There's a wide variety to choose from. One could get pages xeroxed if information is needed for reports. One could also check out any type of magazine dating back to the early seventies, to present time.

Or one could ask a librarian or T.A. for help with what is called microfishe. For those students who have never heard of microfishe, it is a card-size piece of film which has a copy of a magazine on it. You slip it into the machine, and it xeroxes pages off the magazine.

It's very helpful for those students who need information from a magazine for reports since magazines can't be checked out overnight.

A computer is now stored in the library for student use. In the near future, new videotapes will be available for classrooms. The library will always remain a useful and available facility.

The Battle of the I.Q.'s

Members of the Academic Decathlon Team traveled via limousine Saturday, November 15 to West High in Torrance to compete in the Los Angeles County Academic Decathlon. This was the second entry into the competition which features exams in economics, mathematics, science, fine arts, social science and language and literature. Individual competitions in essay, speech, interview and super quiz complete the round of events.

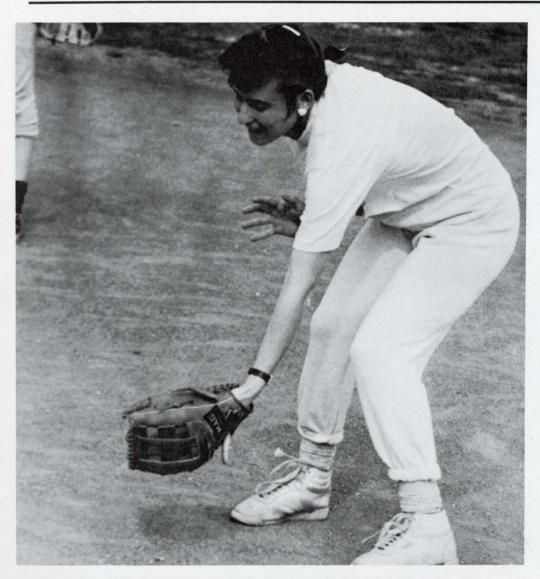

Team members are selected in three categories according to grade point average and all juniors and seniors are eligible to be selected as team members. The team include, Honors: David Castelblanco, Tom Downes and Michael Dapp. Scholastic: Heather Moran, Michael Galletch and Jennifer Bassett. Varsity: David Hale and John Pavliga. Coaching and assisting the team are Mr. Frank Wright, Mrs. Linda Storli and Mr. Michael Clark.

From this competition, a winner was selected to move to the state and then the national competition. Individual scores are rewarded as are team efforts and team highs. Medals are awarded for each category in each of the contests. All participants are treated to a Banquet, Corporate sponsors and the Los Angeles County Office of Education plan the yearly event. Physical Fitness & Health

"Ugh!" exclaim the students as Mr. Flaherty puts them through a vigorous exercise program. If the sit-ups, toe raises, or the dead hang doesn't get you the pretzel and back stretches surely will. Some students may not want to participate in the physical activities, but the students do not have a choice.

If a student wishes to achieve physical fitness by taking a P.E. class, Mr. Flaherty feels that students should exercise after school in addition to regular P.E. class because an hour a day is not enough. Not only does Mr. Flaherty sometimes join in exercises with the students he also exercises on his own.

Due to our outstanding physical education program, the P.E. department was honored by recieving the Golden Bell Award. The Golden Bell Award is only given to the best physical fitness program in the state. Our program is unique in that physiology is taught, written tests are given, and timed runs of not less than one-half mile are given. Another interesting aspect of the P.E. program are the "physical fitness grams". Physical fitness grams tell students their best scores and times on all physical fitness tests.

Being physically fit can help your outlook on life. Not only will you feel better, you will also find that you have more energy. Trying to achieve physical fitness is not a full time job. All it takes is a few hours a day and a lot of willpower.

Students and Machines

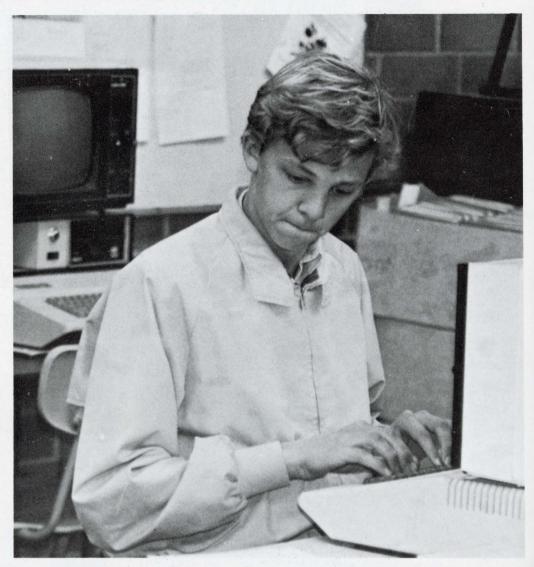

Computers are becoming an important occupation as well as a competitive ho'by. Everyone who works on computers are becoming more important to our future. Today, computers are also being used more often and more widely. Now students have the advantages of learning and developing their knowledge, since computers are being used in school today.

Some of the names of the programs that students use during class time is the word processor, the word handler, on the IBM. And theirs the Apple Works and Visicalc. The students learn the concepts and applications of various software programs such as spreadsheet, data base and word processing.

Mrs. Ambrose has been working here at Canyon since 1978 and is a computer teacher and we asked her if she had known any students who have gone on and made computer programming their career and about 1/4 of the students have. Now that you know more information about computer programming here at school, I'm sure you can't wait to register next time for this class, but sorry freshman and sophmores, this class is only for juniors and seniors who are interested for next September, get ready because usually there are problems with overcrowding during registration.

Mr. Harris is another computer teacher here at Canyon and Mr. Harris said students usually stay interested in learning and working on computers throughout the semester and they are just as interested at the end of the semester.

So get interested in computers because of all the proof, computers have been a positive learning tool.

Experiences in Art

Imagination and creativity, two key elements needed to persue the art world and become part of it. Who are the Picassos and Rembrandts of our school and why is art important? We have several advanced and basic art classes. Ms. Erhardt and Mr. Brown teach these classes, and have established respectable programs. Ms. Erhardt teaches 2dimensional art and experience in art. The students learn and experiment with various media. Mr. Brown teaches 3-dimensional art, which is sculpting. He also teaches an experience in art class. Ms. Erhardt said that the more popular areas of study were ceramics, which is clay molding and sculptures. Mr. Brown's classes like leather craft work, and practice stained glass art. His advanced art class is also in to exquisite jewelery making.

Both teachers had students who they thought were quite good and candidates for the art show. Ms. Erhardt felt that Chris Zemojtel was very good in drawing and painting; and Mr. Brown felt that Shaun Earle had an artistic aptitude for drawing. He also felt that Alex Bozeman was good in sculpting.

Both had comments about what they thought of the program, with Ms. Erhardt saying she thought it was "pretty good!" Mr. Brown felt it was ok, but "too crowded!" Art has its rough edges, but the true artist will emerge and have something to be proud of.

The Sound of Music

Symbols clashing, drums thundering, and sounding trumpets herald the presence of the award winning band. The marching band, choir, and music in general is a tradition at every high school in the U.S. Marching bands compete in competitions, march in parades, play at pep rallies, and perform during halftime. The band, led by Mr. Gilpin, can often be heard practicing for upcoming events early before school or during band periods. Endless practice leads to perfection.

The Cowboys also have other bands, a symphonic band and a jazz band. These bands play for the spring concerts and their own performances. They are not heard of or as popular as the marching band, but are no less respected.

There is also a choir, which differs in variety. There is an all girls choir, and treble choir. Then there is a Co-ed choir named Madrigals. These singers also have their own performances, and are seen in spring concerts and festivals. Students that were involved by putting forth their talent for concerts, competition, and enjoyment for halftimes and pep rallies, are a true representation of the pride of our school.

Mr. Guerrero and Mr. Gilpin prepare the students for the performances, and their success has helped enhance the school and the community towards higher achievements of the arts.

Hands as Tools

Ever since time began, men & women have been working with their hands to accomplish important tasks, in woodworking classes, students are taught how to use their hands and do things other than pushing a pencil.

Mr. Dave Blankenburg, the woodshop teacher, feels that woodworking is not hard and anyone can learn how to do it. He has been working with wood for 35 years, and feels that there can be some danger involved, but only if the student is not paying attention.

Mr. Blankenburg says that some of the most popular things to make in woodshop are skateboards, rocking horses, clocks, crossbows, and boxes.

If one is planning to enroll is woodshop, it should be the first class they sign up for. Mr. Blankenburg says that lines are very long at registration and classes are usually overcrowded. However, if one doesn't get woodshop one semester, the next semester is always a possibility.

Woodshop is a worthwhile experience as well as rewarding and challenging.

Our Principal Dr. White

Have you ever wondered how hard it would be to be principal of a school? Being a principal is no easy job, because our principal, Dr. White, is responsible for the operation and efficient functioning of the school. He is also responsible to hire staff, watch the school's budget, and the welfare of 2200 kids.

To become a principal in this district, one must have at least a bachelor's degree and a master's degree and hold an administrative credential. Dr. White attended Santa Monica city college where he received an AA degree. He then went on to University California, Santa Barbara, where he received a bachelor's degree. Then, he attended California State University, Los Angeles, where he received a Master of Arts degree. Then, he moved on to Pepperdine University where he finally earned his Doctorate degree (yes, that is the reason we call him Dr. White instead of Mr. White).

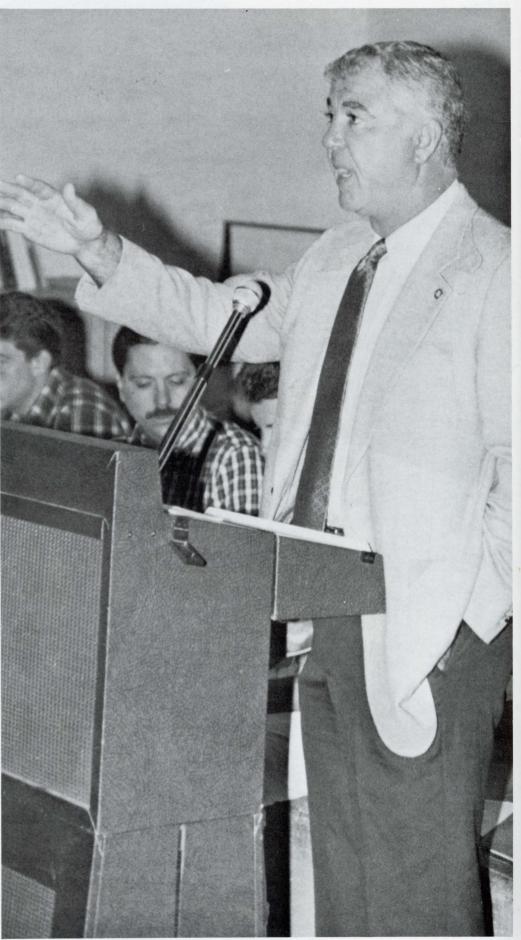

Dr. White has been the principal here for three years, making it a total of 11 years that he has held the title of principal. The things he enjoys most about being principal is the variety of people he comes into contact with everyday, those including the students, staff, and parents. He also enjoys his job because everyday is different.

Dr. White feels that the biggest problem at school is the large number of students who do not place a high priority on learning. Because the problem deals with student attitudes, the problem is not easily solved. There needs to be a continual effort placed on the importance of education and achieving by the parents. Dr. White, in the future, would like to see a change in student attitudes, whereby a larger number of students place a higher priority on achievement in the area of curriculum.

In his spare time, Dr. White, believe it or not, loves to body surf. He also officiates sports, such as football and basketball.

Dr. White has made 1986-1987 a very successful year. Without him, our school would probably not be the best school in the SCV.

Right: Dr. White speaking to students at a Legislative Council meeting.

Our Vice-Principal

Our Vice Principal Mr. Clark has many responsibilities to the school. First he works with the classified staff, which includes attendance, records, etc. Then he is also involved in keeping the school grounds up and working with the ground staff. He's also involved in the prestigious A.P. program, and has a hand in the counseling department. The list also includes preparing the master schedule and finally he is active among the C.A.P. Testing Program. "Whew!" One wonders why he has decided to take on such a big job. Mr. Clark replied that he likes to work in education.

Mr. Clark has hobbies of drawing and painting and at one time he wanted to be an Art Teacher. In his free time he also is working on a doctorate at U.S.C, and spends time hiking, bike riding, and he also is a T-Ball coach. He loves to spend time with his family and goes to church.

Vice-principal, Mr. Clark, hard at work.

Have you ever had a problem with a class or another person on campus? Well, you could have taken your problems to your dean or your counselor. They are there to help you with your school problems.

Did you know that the deans are not only for making sure we are good boys and girls, but they do several other things also. For example, Mrs. Romeka (Go-O) is in charge of S.A.R.S. (school attendance review board), athletics, and the calendar of events. Mr. Luxmore (A-Gl) is in charge of special services, parking lot, and disaster drills (earthquake, fire, etc.). Mrs. Snyder (P-Z) is in charge of Student-of-the-Month, Competency testing, and discipline of students.

Our counselors also have duties other than counseling. Some of their other duties include: publication of registration guide, coordination of progress reports, notification to parents about student's attendance problems, telling parents about credit deficiencies, and they also run a teenage grief workshop. In addition to those duties, counselors also have individual duties. Mrs. Colvin (A-C) is in charge of the career center, Mr. Crathorne (D-He) is in charge of scholarships, Mrs. Hart (Hi-Mc) is director of C.A.P. testing, Mr. Pelkey Me-Se) is in charge of competency tests, andMrs. Rank (Sh-Z) is in charge of progress reports.

As you can see, the deans and the counselors are not only here for the school, but for the students. They have many duties that help keep our school number one.

"The hours after 5 p.m. are what I like best about being a dean." Mrs. Snyder.

Head Custodian, Leonard Castillo.

Keeping the Campus

Have you ever been walking along campus admiring our illustrious custodians picking up trash, and then, all of a sudden, hear the familiar "Do we have a pass?" uttered by one of the campus superisors? Well then, you are no stranger to the faces on this page. You'e seen and met them all. They are the people that make sure order is maintained on campus.

Have you ever been called up to the office during class and told by the attendance secretary that your absence from yesterday is unexcused? The attendance secretaries work long hard hours to make sure students are in their proper places and if not, they try to find out where they are.

Even though these people get little recognition, without them the school would be in total chaos. They've done a great job through years past and should be congratulated for their efforts.

It was an end to an artistic era, Mr. Brown announced his retirement. Mr. Brown was one of our art teachers. He has been here for 22 years but has taught for 29 years. He has taught art for 18 years, and for the other 11 years he has taught Comp. 1 & 2 and Lit. 1. Before his current position he has taught U.S. History, Civics, Math, and Woodshop. He has decided to stop teaching art so that he can put all his effort into making art. Within the years that Mr. Brown has been here he has been most impressed and inspired when individual students have taken art seriously and made great progress in developing thier art skills. He was originally teaching Social Studies but was interested in art. He felt he could teach art better than he could teach Social Studies. Mr. Brown will be missed by all the people he has touched while teaching at school.

Teacher Profile

It was an end to an Industrial Arts era when Mr. Hannum announced his retirement from teaching Insted of continuing his career like Mr. Brown, he has decided to have fun, build a house, travel, go fishing, and write childrens' books. He has been teaching for 31 years and has been in his current position for 20 years. He has served on a committee with several others to plan & try some new ideas for this school. He was hired to teach Idustrial Arts in the District in 1960, and has been teaching Drivers' Ed. & Driver Training for about 14 years. He has also taught a number of Math classes besides Drivers' Ed. & Driver Trianing and Industrial Arts. Within the years that Mr. Hannum has been here, he has been most impressed with the opportunity for students to have the finest teachers in the world. He has liked most of the students but has been disappointed that more fo the students didn't take advantage of their opportunities. In his current position he feels that this school provides the greatest opportunity for students to educate themselves. Mr. Hannum can and will be remembered as the teacher who encouraged students and helped them to think for themselves!

Below: Andy Boron addresses the school at an A.S.B. election rally.

All the years of hard work, trying to make it to the big 12th grade finally paid off. The endless hours of homework and classes are over and we've survived!

So now what?

Some students go on to Princeton, U.C.L.A., or another prestigious school, while others take the journey to C.O.C. However, many students don't plan to further their education. A few may venture on to becoming the ever-famous door-todoor vacuum cleaner salesman, while others may even build the better mousetrap.

Yet, those who want to succeed greatly enough could go on to a glamorous career like acting, or, hey, how about going on to be president?!

Academic Excelleration

It began in their freshman year, that drive and determination that would pay off in the end. Throughout their high school years they worked hard and kept their grades up. Now, as seniors their high G.P.A.'s will go to work for them in the outside world.

These senior achievers were at the top of their class. They maintained a G.P.A. of 3.5 or better for seven semesters.

Hawaiian Feast Ends In An Uprore

As the sun set over the school, something magical was going on. It was not what one might have expected, in fact it was much different. The senior banquet, held on Thursday June 4th, had the look and spirit of Hawaii. Seniors and staff alike dressed up for the special occasion. Grass skirts and tropical shirts were a common sight. Top 40's music was playing during the feast, the night seemed to be perfect. The grace of the evening would soon end. The evening was spoiled as food fights broke out. "It was nice, but too many people got rowdy. That made it unpleasant for the rest of us." Said Jeri Emetrio. Before the party was back under control, a punch bowl was broken. People at the banquet put the problems behind them and enjoyed the rest of the evening.

Despite the fact that many underclassmen are well known for being tossed headfirst into smelly trashcans, there is certainly quite a lot of spunk in the hearts of these students.

These kids are willing to do most anything, leap any bound in order to achieve success in what they choose. Young teens are given the opportunity to explore the fantastic offerings of our school.

Underclassmen are generally outgoing individuals, unafraid to share their outrageous opinions and emotions with the world.

The determination of the underclassmen leads them on into striving for and gaining only the best. Keep it up, guys!

Amy Mc Coy - Tall Flags Co-Captain Height: 5'2'' Weight: 105-110 Eye Color: Blue Hair Color: Brown Birthplace: Tarzana Q. What do you think about when you are on the field?

A. Usually I'm counting, to keep time. I think about my friends out in the stands. It forces me to smile and do a good job.

Q. What has been the highlight of being on Tall Flags?

A. Being praised, getting to show off at games and parades. Parades are fun, but I enjoy marching on the track and hearing my friends yell, "Yeah, Amy!"

Q. Why did you choose flags over the other activities offered?

A. The main reason is because my cousin, Noelle Dobbins, was captain last year. She got me involved. I always had looked up to her; I guess you could say she was my idol. The reason why I've continued, is becasue I liked being involved.

Q. How has being on flags changed your social/home life?

A. Football season has affected my grades. I never get to see my friends anymore. It's really separated me from them. After school there's two hours of practice every day, so that cuts off activities and phone conversations so I can't visit my friends.

Q. If you had 3 wishes, what would they be? A. 1. More time to be with myself, family, friends, and homework.

- 2. Better grades.
- 3. Fifty more wishes.

Production of volume 19, Trails 1987, was completed by the Canyon High School Photo Journalism class. The adviser is Ms. Faye Erhardt and the Editor-in-chief Glenn Page.

The book was printed by Herff Jones yearbooks in its Logan, Utah plant. Sales representative Dave Smith provided valuable assistance and good advice.

Eighty pound Bordeaux paper was used, while the color pages were printed on Eurogloss paper. End sheets used the textured coloetext paper.

The copy team was led by senior Linn McDivvitt. Linn and her section, James Voss, Ahn Nguyen, and Wendy Wyllie, not only provided the copy for student life and academics, but they chose the type and headline styles for the book. They are; Copy (10pt.) and Caption (8pt.) in Souvenir Light. The Headlines (48pt.) and the sub Headlines (30pt.) were done in Souvenir Demi.

Most black and white photos were done by the yearbook photographers. They were led by Photo Editor Giovanni Castro. Gio was assisted by Carlos Salcel. Other yearbook photographers include; Dawn Clelland, Eric Schuetz, Chris Zemojtel, Yvonne Thomley, and Jeff Warner. Most color photographs were done by O'Connor Studios. Our many thanks to Mike O'Connor and Danele R. Benoit.
