"For Each Other—Not Against Each Other."

Little Girl Run Over by Auto

Velda Robertson, of Eagle Rock, who with her brother, H. R. Robertson, was a visitor at the home of Ranger Peterson last Sunday, met with a painful accident while walking along the highway, near Bill Hart's place, when she was struck and knocked down by a Ford operated by C. E. Lyon. The latter evidently lost his head when he encountered a bad jam of cars and cut across the highway to the wrong side. One wheel of the car passed over the little girl's body inflicting numerous cuts and bruises. We are glad to learn, however, that Miss Velda is gradually recovering from her injuries. Lyon was arrested and booked on a charge of reckless driving.

The Boy Scouts

The Newhall Boy Scouts will hold another party on Saturday, January 19th.

Local Law Enforcement

For failure to stop on signal of siren, a violation of Sec. 133, M. V. Act, C. G. Riedel was booked on the local docket. He pleaded guilty. Fine not yet imposed.

For hunting on posted ground a fine of $5 was imposed upon both S. W. Aldridge and C. A. Duesler. Five days, suspended, was added for good measure.

Harold Lang drew a 90 day suspended jail sentence on a charge of vagrancy.

S. Kachardian was booked on a charge of reckless driving and escaped with a 30 day suspended sentence.

D. Rainey was picked up near Castaic for vagrancy. The Court imposed a 30 day County jail sentence. When Rainey appeared before the Los Angeles Court it was discovered that he had escaped Patton and returned to the city.

W. P. Newhall was charged with reckless driving.

Newhall Woman's Club

The all day session that the Newhall Woman's Club plans to hold next Wednesday, January 23, promises to be quite interesting and all members are urged to attend the meeting.

A special speaker has been engaged, this to be Judge Mayo Thomas, who will give an address on "Teaching Our Boys and Girls Self Confidence." Whether a club member or not you are cordially invited to attend.

At noon a luncheon will be served for the nominal price of 35c.

Bright Little Girl Writes of C. E. Social

Newhall, Cal.
January 18-24

My dear Aunt Molly,
Just got home from a long drive over the Ridge Route. Saw the beautiful sunset as the sun set its last rays down in the canyon hundreds of feet below us.

The curves made me kind of dizzy and scared and my ears just popped. I told Cousin Fred that I was glad when we reached the bottom of the grade, but he only laughed and called me "fraidy cat."

I am having a grand time out here, always going to something and the folks make one feel at home, so I haven't been the least bit homesick yet.

Last Friday nite I went to a Christian Endeavor social. We had our business meeting first, talked over different things, one being that we shouldn't all turn around and stare when any one comes in. Because it is impolite and embarrasses the one arriving. We all agreed that we would try and not do it again, when two of our young ladies came in. Right then and there I had to start all over again, I turned and looked before I thot. But Aunt Molly, I wasn't the only one.

The next important thing was a few parliamentary rules on conducting a meeting and how we should always address our President first. We had lots of fun over that as one would forget and jump up and say what she or he should have done.

After the business meeting we played games. The first one was the magic bottle. A question would be asked as the bottle was pointed toward some one. They surely did ask some personal questions such as "who has the biggest feet" and "for whom is Brother Evans going to perform the next marriage ceremony." We all had a good laugh at each other.

Next we played fruit basket only naming some part of a Ford. Pretty soon the Ford was well stripped so we played the game of "Race" with a clothespin. This proved quite exciting. The other side won. I rather wished I were on that side. But "it's all in the game" as Uncle Ted says.

Next we played cross questions and silly answers. After the games home made candy was passed around and while we ate Rev. Evans gave us some funny readings.

The Social ended just right and all the boys sang "Good Night Ladies." That made me feel a little homesick for the old home songs we used to sing.

Well Aunt Molly I have told you about some of the good times I am having. Am getting sleepy.

Love to all the folks at home and pat dear old Rover for me.

Your Niece,
Birdie Bright

Community Presbyterian Church Notes

Preaching services will be conducted by the Pastor on Sunday morning.

Special numbers will be given by the church choir and the Young People's Chorus and we hope to have Merle Markland and Billy Neale with us to give a violin and piano duet.

The subject of the Sunday School lesson is "Moses called to deliver Israel."

Last Friday evening two new members were received in the C. E. Society and on Sunday morning three members were received into the church.

The young people are giving the Pastor splendid assistance in the morning service and their services are greatly appreciated, not only by the Pastor but by the congregation.

A large number of visitors attended our services last Sunday and they were a blessing to us. After the morning service they inspected the new community church building which was much admired.

In the evening our new president will conduct the meeting and there will be special singing by the Young People's Chorus magazines thru their eyes the first drive held several weeks ago. This accumulation netted them about $10 a ton clear which is quite an incentive for the boys to work even harder on their second drive. If you have any old papers or magazines you don't want let the boys know and they will be glad to relieve you of them on Jan. Proceeds go into the general fund of the local organization.

The Republic Oil Company has been kind enuf to grant permission to the local Scouts to use the five company cottages in Bower's canyon for meeting and camping purposes and the boys are very grateful for the favor.

Parents of boys who are members of a Scout organization should exert their influence to persuade them to attend the meetings with regularity. Nothing worth while can be accomplished by any organization without the loyalty and co-operation of all parties concerned.

The Camp Fire Girls are very anxious to get a tennis court constructed on the lot which Fred Lamkin has agreed to let them use for that purpose and the Boy Scouts have offered their co-operation to the proposition in any way needed.

The world makes way for the man who knows where he's going.

sentence.
A John Doe warrant is out for some campers who let a brush fire escape.

R. D. McCook was fined $40 for violation of Sections 122 and 124-b, Motor Vehicle Act.

Trial is pending in the cases of C. W. Babbitt, M. Smith and J. Henderson for possession of intoxicating liquor.

P. M. Cosgrove who thot it was great sport to try and run cars off the highway, was bagged recently by Constable Pilcher and Deputy Wertz after an interesting chase. Cosgrove was hailed before Judge Miller on a reckless driving charge and was fined $100 for trying to be so smart.

Camp Fire Girls Meeting

The Camp Fire Girls met last Saturday at the home of Mrs. Densmore.

Everyone rejoiced at the thot of having one of the old members back in the circle again. This was Evelyn Lowden.

Before the meeting, the girls got together and painted the new chairs for use in story hour.

The Boy Scouts were represented at the meeting by Donald Frew and Roland Russell.

The meeting was called to order by LaVon Harker and old and new business was taken up.

After the meeting was brot to a close those who could went over to play basket ball.

Faith

The Governor of South Carolina recently called on the people of that state to pray for deliverance from the ravages of the boll weevil. It might be well if the people of California would pray for rain. Especially if they could have the faith equal to that of the little girl in the story who took her umbrella along when people gathered to pray for rain.

What Will be Done About It?

Unemployment in England is increasing, and is already in the dreadful condition that seven million workers and their dependents are forced to apply for public relief. In some of the cities where are skilled workers who have not done a stroke of work in three years.

These men are quiet, but are broken in spirit; and their value as workers is diminishing. They are showing plainly the signs of hunger in their faces. They are clamoring for work, preferring to work at anything rather than to be idle, even tho they may be paid something for it.

The British Government is putting out two million pounds sterling per week for the maintenance of the unemployed, and an equal amount is being contributed by the local Poor Law authorities. The Labor Party sees no solution of the problem which Britain faces except the immediate cancellation of all war debts, including Britain's debt to the United States.

Heretofore Britain has done an enormous business with all other European countries; but Europe can no longer buy, and the British dominions cannot take care of the surplus goods which British mills can produce. The British outlook is dark indeed.

A joint meeting of representatives of all the principal churches of England has just been held in London, at which resolutions were passed calling upon the Government to "institute a searching inquiry into the fundamental causes of the persistent unemployment which has sapped the life of the people for so many years," "with a view to large and radical measures being speedily taken to deal with the evil."

One of the bishops of the Church of England present said that the clergy were at this conference "to give voice to a profoundly uneasy conscience." We can see why, as a result of their always championing the cause of war whenever the opportunity arises, they should have just that kind of conscience.

Where unemployment is so widespread, there is a natural tendency for wages to go down. The condition of cinema workers in London has just come to light, showing that one of these men, working from nine in the morning until ten-thirty at night every day in the week, receives as compensation only two pounds sterling per week; barely enuf for a single man to exist upon. Another operator, showing pictures for seven and one-half hours daily, received only one pound three shillings per week.

Looking Ahead

LAST Spring a total of 350,000 people were disappointed in not being able to obtain deliveries of Ford Cars and Trucks, as orders were placed faster than cars could be produced.

The demand for Ford Cars and Trucks this Spring will, according to all indications, be far greater than last Spring.

Winter buying has been increasing at a greater rate than ever before.

Actual retail deliveries the past 60 days totaled 308,170 Ford Cars and Trucks, an increase of 1,961 a day over a year ago.

Over 200,000 people have already ordered Ford products on our purchase plan, the majority of whom will take delivery in the Spring.

The above facts are given with the suggestion that you list your order promptly with a Ford dealer if you contemplate the purchase of a Ford Car or Truck for use this Spring or Summer and wish to avoid delay in delivery.

You need not pay cash for your car. You can arrange to make a small deposit down, taking care of the balance in easy payments. Or, you can buy on the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan. This puts you on the preferred order list and insures delivery of your car at a time to be determined by yourself.

Do not forget the dance that the Newhall Woman's Club is going to give on Saturday nite, January 26, 1924 at Hap-a-lan Hall. Every body is invited for they want to make this their first dance of the New Year a huge success as the proceeds go toward building that new club house the members are planning. It takes a heap o' money and the entertainments they give from time to time, depend entirely upon the support the community wishes to give them. Mrs. Allie Carr will be in charge of the affair that evening and is sparing no effort or expense to make the evening one of pleasure, so that you will all want to come again. Ernie Ostrup's Orchestra will be there so you will not want to sit around the stove. Be sure and come Jan. 26.

Have you registered?

Mr. and Mrs. Mint Canyonite, have you decided yet, just what dimensions the new school house will be? No doubt you have it all figured out. But be sure and have building planned so that when an entertainment will be given in the district, it will be fully large enuf to accommodate the crowd. Funds can be raised after the building is completed, in many different ways to defray expenses and the joy and pleasure of having such a building, makes the work and planning all the easier. Yes, we must have a larger building.

January 23rd is the regular meeting day for the Newhall Woman's Club and too it is the Club's birthday—two years old. Every member should avail herself of the opportunity of attending. It is your Club and it needs your presence. If you can't come in the morning be sure and be there promptly at 2:00 o'clock for the regular routine of business. But come all day if you can.

CASTAIC NEWS

Last Sunday, Lucile Lamoreaux having reached the advanced age of thirteen years, celebrated the event by inviting a number of her schoolmates to a party at the home of her parents. Much merriment was derived from the many games played. During the afternoon delicious refreshments were served by Lucile's mother. The guests were: Cloda Hare, Thelma Fletcher, Ruth and Walter Schubert, Ruth and Ruby Dodge, Alberta Lamoreaux, Nonie Sequeido, Chester Reynolds, Frank Villa and Billy Lamoreaux, all of Castaic, Helen and Lois Gansert of Temple Town, and George McIntyre, of Los Angeles.

Don't forget, folks, to call on Jim Bemis at his new meat market when in Newhall. We know he will be glad to serve all Castaic folks.

Mrs. G. W. Dodge was quietly celebrating her birthday with a week-end party, to which her mother, of Pasadena, and sister and family, of Temple Town, were the guests, when much to her surprise early Sunday morning, brite and early, a number of friends and relatives motored out from Pasadena to help her celebrate. Many willing hands soon had a delicious turkey dinner on the table and it was thoroughly enjoyed by all. At a late hour countless happy returns were extended to Mrs. Dodge and everyone returned home happy.

Major Whitmore returned to Pasadena Sunday after a week spent at his Castaic ranch.

Lee Mathews and his mother were Castaic visitors several days last week.

Second Thoughts

By JUSTIN WENTWOOD

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

"WHERE d'ya say this here king lives?" demanded the dusty, footsore tramp of his companion, as they flung into the little town.

"Somewheres around here," answered the other. "Say, suppose you wait under this tree for me, and I'll have a look around."

"Oh, I'll wait," grinned the other. "But I guess you been hittin' the pipe when you dreamed that dream, Scotty."

Scotty set off alone without replying. He knew very well where Isaac Krammeler lived. For he had often visited at his house before.

But that was in the days of his respectability, before Krammeler and he, fellow clerks in the bank, took the first step on the downward road. It was Krammeler who had urged him to take the money and invest it in those stocks that were kiting high. It was Krammeler who had arranged to leave the package where he could get it.

It was he who had been caught. Krammeler had covered his tracks well, and Scotty—then Mr. Fergus Hume—had received his sentence of seven years without flinching. Now he was coming back.

He was coming back to get what was coming to him, and Krammeler was going to get what was coming to him, too, for he had married the girl Hume had been engaged to.

Rich and prosperous! Oh, but he'd pay through the nose for it!

Now Scotty saw Krammeler's house in front of him. It stood at the corner, as snug and sedate as ever, only the privet hedge was higher. The garden was ablaze with roses and hydrangeas and other brilliant flowers. And in it two children were merrily chasing each other around and around an umbrella tree.

Scotty stopped outside and looked wistfully over the hedge. It made his heart ache intolerably to see that picture of happiness and beauty. It made his anger rise to a point where it was merged in madness, to think that this smooth rascal should be enjoying the fruits of his crime, while he had languished six years in a filthy pen.

Then he saw a woman coming along a path of the garden. She was dressed in black, her fair hair coiled about the nape of her neck, and despite the years that had passed he recognized Dorothy. His heart leaped at the sight of her. He remembered their kisses. He clenched his fists.

"Hello, man!"

The boy was standing staring at him on the other side of the hedge, the little girl beside him.

"Does your tummy ache, man?"

"No," growled Scotty.

"I thought it did, because you made such a dreadful face, man."

"No, it's worse than stomach-ache bothers me," said Scotty. "How old are you?"

"I'm five," said the boy. "And Susan's fret."

"Like it here, do you?"

The children stared at him, not understanding.

"Where's your Pop. At the bank?" The words came from his lips in a snarl.

The boy's lips trembled. "Pop's dead," he said, whimpering.

"What's that? When did he die?"

"I dunno. A long t-time ago," the child faltered. "It was typhoid fever, the doctor said."

"Feathered his nest pretty well before he died," muttered Hume. But he stood staring at the children in perplexity. Dimly he realized that Krammeler had in some manner escaped his vengeance. But there was Dorthy. She should feel the weight of his vengeance.

"Children!" The mother was calling them. She was coming along the path toward them. And in another moment she would see and probably recognize him.

And the beauty and happiness of the place came home to him once more, but differently now. In a way he felt as if the problem of retribution had been raised to a higher plane. But he never knew what it was made him turn away. Perhaps simply because he still loved her.

"Come away from the hedge, children."

"Come away from that man, you mean," mumbled Scotty, enjoying the exquisite thought of how he could confound her. But he turned and made his way back to where he had left his companion.

"Well?" grinned the other. "Couldn't find the place," growled Scotty.

"Told ya it was a pipe dream, Scotty. Let's beat it and see what we can bum further along this road."

Buff More Restful Than White.

Buff is replacing white in hospital construction, having been found more restful to the eye and having a high reflection factor, according to the Eyesight Conservation Council of America. The new Fifth Avenue hospital in New York is said to be using this color, and recent experiments have indicated that it may be adopted generally. Bright colors in convalescent wards, it was said, have aided in recovery of patients, but only natural tones must be used. The council questions whether "the time honored use of large figured cretonnes, wallpaper and rugs with a variety of prominent colors should longer be permitted in the hospitals."

Penalty of Prominence.

Gladys' father is a colonel on the staff of the governor, and on a recent occasion she saw him, in brave array, on his way to attend a social function given by the governor.

"How did you like your father in his uniform?" the colonel asked his small daughter that night.

"You looked handsomer than anybody else," said Gladys, loyally, "and you held your head up as high! But I think they were mean not to let you have a drum to play on!"—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

LAMP BURNING 600 YEARS

is in Chapel in England Which Was Built in the Thirteenth Century.

Baddesley Clinton is one of the beautiful ancient moated granges of England. It possesses a private chapel, where with one or two short periods of interruption mass has been said ever since the days of the Reformation. But the Roman Catholic traditions of another country house, the chronicles of which have just been published, are even more remarkable than those of Baddesley Clinton. At East Hendred House, near Abingdon, there is a private chapel in the grounds which has stood there from the Thirteenth century. Here the Eyston family, who have a private entrance from the library of the house, have worshipped century after century; and it is accepted as an historical fact that the lamp before the altar has never ceased to burn for 600 years. No Protestant service has ever been held here, and it was left quite intact by Cromwell's soldiers when they visited East Hendred.

PHILOSOPHY

By EDGAR GUEST

"This is a mighty world you're in,
An' so don't spread yourself too thin."
My wise old father used to say,
Just do your best from day to day;
Make sure of everything you touch
But never undertake too much.
Remember as you go along
To sing a cheerful snatch of song.
But be contented if a few
Into their hearts shall welcome you.
Life has its tasks both great and small,
But no one man can do them all.
It's settled by a natural law
How much a willing horse can draw,
And if beyond his strength he tries,
A failure, broken down, he dies.
Some men neglect the little things
To seek the praise which greatness brings,
And miss the goal, and, in the end,
Find they have lost the nearby friend.
No man, however wise and strong,
Can bear the burdens of the throng;
Who seeks to serve too many here
Brings no one happiness and cheer,
And this is also true, I tell,
Who tries too much does nothing well.
God has assigned us certain tasks,
And nothing more of us he asks.

He shall succeed by every test
Who does no more than just his best.
"This is a mighty world you're in,
An' so don't spread yourself too thin,"
Be good and brave and kind and true,
And serve with faithfulness the few.
Be satisfied to earn the praise
Of those who follow in your ways.
If you bring happiness to them,
You need not care what tongues condemn.
This is the test for every man,
That he shall do the best he can.

—The Denver Commercial

HE MUST BE A CANNIBAL

First Party: "I am going to eat."
Second Party: "Yes, I think I will go and eat myself."

THE OLD CAVE-MAN STUFF

The modern woman enjoys and appreciates freedom of action, thought and speech. She has risen above the inconsistencies and bigotry of her ancient ancestors for which she should not be condemned. And it is also safe to say that she appreciates kindness and tenderness a great deal more than she does the "cave-man" tactics generally conceded to be relics of the stone age and barbarism. Some of the stronger (? ?) sex apparently cherish an opinion that because women now enjoy many of the privileges allotted formerly only to the male, that she should also enjoy the same rough treatment, physically, that men frequently enjoy and to which their systems have become hardened and accustomed thru successive generations of self preservation and the protection of womankind. But as a matter of fact, it is safe to say that the cases are few in which the modern woman looks upon "cave-man" stuff as being more desirable than chivalry.

"Dear John," the wife wrote from a fashionable resort, "I enclose the hotel bill."

"Dear Mary," he responded, "I enclose check to cover the bill, but please do not buy any more hotels at this figure; they are cheating you."

"HERITAGE OF THE DESERT"

To those who enjoy gunplay, killing, wild Injuns and the old West, untamed, rough-shod and crude, Zane Grey's latest screen play, "Heritage of the Desert," will make a strong appeal. Very little has been neglected in this picture to give it a blood n' thunder atmosphere. As a spectacular piece of cinema handwork this story stands in the front row, but as an educational or inspirational message it offers little that is in keeping with refinement.

Mr. Grey knows the West pretty well both the old and the new. "Heritage of the Desert" visualizes the old West, before the railroads came, and is at times quite nauseating. On the other hand, "The Call of the Canyon," undoubtedly the best story Grey has ever written, is a real throbbing human document, a real inspiration and an everlasting monument to the finest impulses that dwell within the human heart.

The screen story of "Heritage of the Desert" is adapted from the book of the same title but at times the original story has been sadly forgotten.

The acting of Ernest Torrance and Lloyd Hughes is very impressive in this picture but Bebe Daniels, who took the leading feminine role, was seen to much better advantage in "His Children's Children."

POPULAR SONG ROT

The words to many of our modern popular songs are tributes to crudeness, sickening sentimentality, mush or suggestiveness. Thank goodness, most of these rotten stanzas accompany tunes that are short lived. Some of them do, however, get a good hold on the public mind and tongue in being propped up by a catchy melody, one that is easy to whistle.

There are songs on sale at most of our reputable music stores nowadays that have no business on the piano in any decent home.

Herbert Ball is one of the modern popular song writers whose pen has never yet invaded the slime barrel. His 'Let the Rest of the World Go By' and 'Boy o' Mine' attained wonderful popularity. The words to both these songs are clean and wholesome with no tinge of vulgarity. Which is proof sufficient that popular melodies need not be accompanied by dirty words in order to gain the favor of the masses.

Teacher: "Who signed the Magna Charta?"

Youngster: "Please, ma'am, it was not me."

Teacher (disgusted): Oh, take your seat."

Skeptical member of school board: "Here, call that boy back. I don't like his manner. I believe he did do it."

Ford Conservation

For more than three years the Ford Motor Company at its River Rouge plant here has been saving dust until today a veritable mountain of it, containing at least 50,000 tons, stands out in imposing proportions at one place on the plant grounds.

Of course, it isn't dust in the ordinarily accepted terms, but a much more valuable property.

It is blast furnace dust, a fine, sand like substance which is blown from the furnaces in the blast and utterly worthless in that state, but valuable because fifty per cent of it is iron ore. The other fifty per cent is coke dust.

So the Ford Motor Company has been saving it until the time came when the iron ore could be reclaimed, and in examples of the value of little savings this certainly stands out as among the most striking.

A moment's figuring will show it. Of the 50,000 tons in the dust mountain at River Rouge, 50 per cent or 25,000 tons is iron ore in dust form. The Ford model T cylinder casting when finished weighs 82 pounds, and reclaiming of the 25,000 tons of iron ore dust means sufficient iron for more than 600,000 cylinder castings.

The company now has started to reclaim this dust through the new sintering plant which has just begun operations and which forms another highly interesting feature of the River Rouge activities.

The sintering plant, a model of efficiency, is erected in close proximity to the two big blast furnaces and joins the giant ore bins from which the furnaces are fed.

The furnace dust, caught up in suction conveyors, is carried directly to the sintering plant and there is mixed with cast iron borings gathered from the various Ford manufacturing units.

Conveyors also carry the mixed dust and borings to the plant and dump the mixture into the sintering pan which is of three-ton capacity. A gas flame of intense heat is passed over the dust and action of the coke, under this heat and the suction draft fuses the mixture into chunks of sufficient size and weight for use in the furnace and thus the iron ore in the dust is reclaimed.

Ford sinter as produced at the new River Rouge plant is of finer quality than any on the market, running between 70 and 75 per cent iron. It is considered an important blast furnace material and because of its porous nature permits better and more effective operation of the blast with the result that the furnace product is more uniform and therefore a high quality iron for the castings.

An average of fifty tons of blast furnace dust comes from the two furnaces daily. The sintering plant will produce more than 250 tons of sinter a day due to the mixture of iron borings and dust, which speeds up the process reducing the sintering period from 20 or 30 minutes under ordinary circumstances to about 7 minutes. At least 100 tons are being taken every day from the great mountain of dust which the company has been saving and is estimated that at this rate it will take a year and a half to use up the mountain and turn it into Ford iron.

Daley's Stores Dividends

Stockholders in Daley's, Incorporated, owning a chain of grocery stores in Southern California, one of which is located in Newhall, are receiving joyous New Year's greetings in the shape of dividends out of the profits during the past year, according to a notice received today from President Joseph A. Daley by W. J. Wilhelm, local manager of the Daley's store.

The Board of Directors of that company recently declared a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent per annum payable out of the surplus profits of the corporation on all outstanding preferred stock of the corporation, dividend to be paid on January 2, 1924, to all stockholders of record on December 31, 1923. In addition a common stock dividend at the rate of 10 per cent was also declared payable to all stockholders of common stock of record on December 15, 1923, which is being paid on the same date as the preferred stock dividend.

The Daley's chain of stores has grown from four stores in 1916, to 127 at the close of 1923, stretching from Tustin on the south to Ventura on the north. According to announcements from Mr. Daley, plans are under way to establish at least fifty additional stores during 1923. Thirty-two stores were opened during last year and the company has enjoyed a steadily increasing business.

Recently twelve stores operated by the California Chain Stores were taken under the Daley's wing and are now being stocked and operated by them. Under the personal management of President Joseph A. Daley, the chain of stores bearing his name have shown remarkable progress, Mr. Daley states that chain grocery stores in Southern California have only scratched the surface for with practically every community expanding, the need for stores of the Daley's type, will increase, and a bright future is predicted for the corporation. Among the many local people who are customers of the Daley's stores, are a great number who are financially interested in the concern. Thus, they not only profit by the savings in the purchase of their food supplies, but receive in addition profits in dividends such as those just announced.

A letter written by Bobby Burns, Scottish poet, brought $2,460 recently when the William F. Skunks Invade Village.

The Adirondack village of Keene is suffering from an invasion of skunks. The villagers are reported on the verge of panic. One family in this invaders has established winter quarters in the cellar of Charles Cram's house. The residents are undecided as to the best method of getting rid of the visitors. A campaign of poisoning is under consideration.

Parachutes for Mountain Climbers.

Mountain climbing will lose most of its perils, if not all its thrills, when the suggestion of F. E. Louy in Science and Invention is carried out. Both the dangers of climbing and the difficulties of descending will be removed if the Alpinist will carry a 17-pound pack on his back containing one of the regulation United States army parachutes. This parachute opens by merely pulling a cord, conveniently placed with a large ring on one end. The new parachute is fully opened after a drop of 60 feet and a man has actually jumped from the low altitude of 75 feet from a flying boat traveling at 100 miles an hour. The breaking of a lifeline or a fall from a precipice need have no terrors now if one has a parachute. In case of a sudden storm or a perilous descent it will be safer and quicker to get down by means of the parachute.

Game and Fish in Alaska.

Plenty of black-tailed deer in season; bear as thick along the salmon streams as cottontail rabbits in the bush of the Middle West states; every sort of duck that flies; the streams squirting with trout and salmon; clams squirting from every little beach along the coast; big, juicy crabs for the netting; all sorts of berries in late summer; to say nothing of the mountain goats up around timberline on all the higher hills, and moose back from the coast among the inland swamps and lakes.—Adventure Magazine.

Got Something

Want to Sell?

Most people have a piece of furniture, a farm implement, or something else which they have discarded and which they no longer want.

These things are put in the attic, or stored away in the barn, or left lying about, getting of less and less value each year.

WHY NOT SELL THEM?

Somebody wants those very things which have become of no use to you. Why not try to find that somebody by putting a want advertisement in THIS NEWSPAPER?
