Community Presbyterian Church Notes

Sunday is Mother's Day and the tenth anniversary of Brother Evans' ministry in the Newhall parish. A special double program is being arranged as this is Brother Evans' last Sunday with us, before he goes East to attend the General Assembly. The Sunday School will furnish carnations, so that every member of the congregation can have one. Let us fill the little church on this beautiful day. Brother Evans would appreciate having all his friends, old and new, attend the service.

The district C. E. service will be held with us Sunday afternoon. This will be a very special meeting as reports of the County Convention will be given.

In the evening, our own delegates will give their report at the C. E. service.

Don't forget the Sunday School at 10. Let us pass the Easter attendance mark which was 103.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Beckley were the guests Thursday night of the H. B. Russells while on their way to Convict Lake for a three weeks camping trip. The Russells will join them at the Lake next week.

Miss Edith Ramsey was up from Los Angeles Wednesday.

Be sure your camp fire is dead; then bury it.

Prudence Penny's May Day Dance at Hap-a-lan

The dance given last Saturday evening by the Thursday Evening Music Club, for the benefit of the Mothers' Bureau, was most successful, both financially and socially. The large basket at the door was filled to overflowing with tiny garments and soft yardage. A very congenial crowd responded to this worthy cause and each one felt he was perfectly entertained for the music was entrancing. Mr. Billy Wachtel and Mr. Ernie Ostrup, old time dance musicians for Newhall, were both there with a first class drummer to make a rousing three piece orchestra. The disappointing feature was the absence of Prudence and Norma, both detained by deaths in their respective families.

SAUGUS ITEMS

Our school will close May 16, with a program that evening to which parents and friends are invited. Five children will graduate this year.

Al and Bill Culver are away on a week-end fishing trip at Bishop.

Mrs. Walter Neale is enjoying a two weeks vacation from her duties at the Saugus Confectionery.

Mrs. Nellie Hanson spent a few days this week with her cousin, Mrs. Kindig.

Mrs. M. Madsen spent the week with her daughter, Miss Eva Madsen who lives at the Al Culver home.

Cosmos Club to Give "Better Pictures" Program

There will be a program given under the auspices of the Motion Picture Department of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, Los Angeles District, in the interest of production and patronage of "Better Pictures." The Cosmos Club is giving this program free to club officers and members in honor of Mrs. Roger Sterrett, District Chairman, at the Ebell Club Auditorium on Tuesday, May 13, at 2:00 p. m., Los Angeles. The Newhall Woman's Club is invited and it is hoped many of the members will take advantage of this opportunity and attend.

Lancaster Bank Bandits Go To San Quentin

Three of the bandits, who last February, robbed the Antelope Valley Bank, at Lancaster, appeared before Judge Keetch, of the Superior Court, in Los Angeles, this week and drew a term in San Quentin of from one year to life.

The bandits, whose names are Antonio Arraj, Tony Prieto and Fernando Montijo, were all captured in the foothills surrounding Mint Canyon after a thrilling man hunt which lasted several days.

A fourth member of the bandit gang was shot and killed by Frank McAdam, of Palmdale, in Mint Canyon, on the day of the robbery.

Auto Club Warning on Hoof and Mouth Malady

"Do no unnecessary traveling on foot or in auto until the hoof and mouth disease is stamped out of California," is the admonition to all loyal citizens from the authorities in charge of the big job of eliminating this costly epidemic.

An appeal has been made by the government authorities to the Automobile Club of Southern California to urge all motorists to cooperate in the campaign against the disease. Experts assert that 90 per cent of the infection is spread by human beings and automobiles. Hence, a responsibility rests on every one of the 600,000 automobile owners in Southern California to keep their machines at home unless business compels their use.

All of the mountain roads have been closed to travel, and at all county lines disinfecting stations have been established so that every day travel by motor is becoming more inconvenient. In some instances five to ten hours are required to cross county lines.

LOST—On north side of "Newhall grade," purse containing keys and handkerchiefs with mourning bands. Reward for return to this office. It-p

FOR SALE—Choice pedigreed airedale pups, eligible for registry M. C. Richards, Newhall.

In Los Angeles County it is against the law for any person but a peace officer to carry a concealed weapon, either on the person or in an auto, without permit from the County Sheriff. This regulation is being enforced.

Newhall Woman's Club Notes

The Study Section of the Newhall Woman's Club is planning an entertainment to be given at Hap-a-lan Hall, Newhall, on the night of May 17th. If you want a good old fashioned laugh, for goodness sake don't miss this treat. It will be a farce from start to finish, on the filming of Uncle Tom's Cabin. You know the proclivity of these club women for fun and it will all be put on by its members

Mrs. Walton Young is the chair-man.

The Club year will soon close, so they want this to be a banner nite. Owing to the foot and mouth disease quarantine, many plans have been retarded, but it is hoped that the public will be responsive in the call as this section of the Club has worked hard to give a good home entertainment. Prices for adults will be 35 cents and children 20 cents. Remember the date, Saturday, May 17. Come early and avoid the rush in securing seats.

All Club members are requested to be present at the next Club meeting May 14, as the annual election of officers will be held. Please be promptly on time as there is much to do.

Life echoes back at us all just what we send forth.

Good will comes to us in just the measure we send out good will thots.

The measure of co-operation that you get is regulated by the amount of the spirit of helpfulness you have in YOU.

You can sweeten life, you can add zest to it, you can make it in kind and measure just what you want it to be.

Think the life you want and it will echo back just exactly as you think.

What you are depends largely upon what you think.

The Rule of the Home

BROOKLYN JUDGE asserts that more than eighty per cent of our criminals are under twenty-five. Another New York jurist observes that the average hardened criminal is about seventeen and that the age at which the largest numbers of prisoners are committed to jails and reformatories is nineteen. This implies a youth situation of alarming proportions and implications.

How can this frightful wastage of young life be accounted for? Those nearest to the facts tell us that it is not the fruitage of a crime wave that inevitably follows in the wake of war. The causes go much deeper. In the final analysis the principal indictment falls upon one institution only and that institution is the average American home.

The tap root of the situation is contempt for rightly constituted authority. A generation ago the parents governed the family. Today the tables are turned and the family policy is dictated largely by the children. Consequently, before either the school or the church can assume any guardianship, the seeds of potential disorder have been sown. Nothing is plainer than that moral education, like charity, must begin at home.

The child who has not learned a wholesome respect for home-law will have nothing but disdain for school-law. The youth who has not been disciplined to regard either will leave school around fourteen and go out to defy all law. And when he falls into the stern hand of the guardians of the law he will have his parents to thank most of all.

The remedy is not better laws or better schools or better churches. It is better homes and better parents.

Brisbane Likes Them Old-Fashioned. Well--

Arthur Brisbane says that King George is guided by his wife who "is a sensible woman, wearing dresses of the old kind and high shoes that button up." Are we to take it as final that every woman not wearing old fashioned clothes is lacking in wisdom? There is progress in everything, even in clothes and a clinging to old wearing apparel might mean an entertaining of and belief in old ideas which is not so good even in a ruler. And anyhow we'll bet that King George enjoys the vision of an up-to-date flapper ALMOST as much as listening to the sensible advice of Queen Mary.

Election Convention Doings By Radio

One-tenth of the people of the United States, about twelve million persons, may "tune in" on the proceedings of the Republican National Convention at Cleveland, June 10. The proceedings will be relayed from station to station and so amplified that people on both the east and west coast may hear it.

Mint Canyon Juleps

After visiting with friends for several days in Los Angeles, Harry Newmann, accompanied by Miss Helen Peterson and Mr. Alexander Thorkilsen, returned to the gypsum plant, where he is employed.

Mr. Theodore Stensland, superintendent of the gypsum mine, filed suit against the County, for failing to issue permits to enter property located near Mint Canyon.

Messrs. Roy and Mark Tony, with their families of Los Angeles visited last Sunday with their uncle, Henry Krieg of Mint

The Sulphur Springs school closed down last Monday owing to scarlet fever in the district.

The oil interest is still increasing in Mint and more leases were given different companies last week.

Voting was lite in the Sterling precinct, but Hiram Johnson was elected.

Miss Lucile Robertson of Los Angeles is the house guest of her sister, Miss Corrine Robertson of Sterling.

Absolutely no news in Mint.

BUGHOUSE FABLES, JR.

Lost in the wilds of Soledad for many hours, without any food or water, while a band of Sterling knights were making valiant efforts to find her, dead or alive, was the pathetic experience of Miss Irene Robertson who, with her sister, Corrine, maintains bachelor-apartments away up in the heart of Tick canyon, where there "was been once" a borax mine.

Starting out from Sterling for the Schaffer Ranch, about 6 p. m. one evening, Miss Robertson lost her way and drifted aimlessly, unconsciously and dizzily over the sun-parched country of the cactus, thorn and rat-tailed rattlesnake.

Pursued constantly by hill-billy bulls, scorpions, pack rats, lizards, centipedes, and other varieties of non-edible insects, the young lady finally found her way miraculously to her destination, all in, but still able to talk.

When Miss Robertson failed to put in her appearance at the Sterling supper table that evening, everyone KNEW there was something wrong.

So, Bob Prickett immediately organized a searching party from among the stalwart citizens of Sterling and at once started out to hunt the absent one. Fears for her safety were not put at rest until the g. m. hours of dawn when Miss Robertson was "found" at the Schaffer Ranch, many miles away.

Which merely goes to prove that a certain amount of adventure still lurks among the shadows of Soledad's shimmering hills. Selah!

Falcon Exhausted by Flight Captured on Ship

One of the most recent additions to the London zoo is a peregrine falcon which, alighting on a vessel in the Atlantic, a thousand miles from land, was captured and brought to London. It is still a mystery how birds can exist during these terrible journeys across the seas.

This falcon had evidently completed half the journey on which he set out, and there is no reason to doubt that the strongest members of the tribe do succeed where this one failed.

All hawks (the peregrine falcon is one of the most beautiful of them) are swift and strong on the wing. Our ancestors set high value upon good specimens, which were trained to hunt and bring down game.

The king's falconer was a personage of some importance. There are records of the sport so far back as 2,000 years ago. The falconer carried a bird on his wrist, and when the game had traveled a certain distance the hawk was released. It gave chase and brought down the game by swooping on it from above.

In India falcons were trained to hunt deer and similar large game. Rising high in the air, the bird descended with lightning speed and struck its talons into the head of the animal, which thus became flustered and panic-stricken and was easily caught up by the hunt.—London Tit-Bits.

Paul Revere Was Artist, Engraver and Dentist

Paul Revere, famous for his historical ride during the Revolutionary war, seems to have been one of those men who can do anything and do it well. He was an artist and an engraver of both wood and metal. He was a silversmith of rare skill, and he even turned his attention to dentistry in the early days when dentistry was barely beginning to be a science. There is still extant one of his advertisements of 1776, reading:

"Whereas, many persons are so unfortunate as to lose their Foreteeth by Accident, and otherways, to their great Detriment, not only in looks, but speaking both in Public and Private.—This is to inform all such, that they may have them Replaced with artificial Ones, that looks as well as the Natural, and answers the End of Speaking to all Intents, by Paul Revere."

When, quite a while after Bunker Hill, it was desired to remove the body of General Warren from its first resting place, it was Paul Revere who identified it by an artificial tooth and the wire he had used to fasten it in.—Detroit News.

Penitentes a Strange Sect

The Penitentes, or Penitent Brothers, were once very numerous in New Mexico. They were Mexicans—very ignorant and fanatic ones.

Their strange brotherhood—a remnant and perversion of the penitent orders of the Middle ages—was active only forty days in the year, the forty days before Lent. At that time they logged their own naked backs with cruel scourges of aloë fiber, carried enormous crosses, lay on beds of cactus, and performed similar self-tortures, making pilgrimages thus. On Good Friday they redoubled their ghastly efforts, and finally crucified upon a real cross, one of their number who was chosen by lot.

In the Middle ages nearly the whole of Europe had a strange epidemic—a fever of penitential self-whipping. The Flagellants, as they were called, paraded the streets, lashing themselves with scourges, or used the whips at home. Even kings caught the infection, and abused their own royal backs. It took centuries to eradicate this remarkable custom.—Detroit News.

Lichens Are Descendants of Prehistoric Growth

The world has more than once been startled by reports that a descendant of the monster animals which inhabited the earth before the ice age has been seen eluding its head out of the ocean depths or lurking in the darkness of a primeval forest.

Hitherto none of these reports has been confirmed. But when we come to plant life we find in the lichens real prehistoric growths. The lichens we can see and examine today are similar to those which existed tens of thousands of years ago.

The growths which spread themselves over rocks and old walls are a combination of a fungus and countless thousands of algae. The fungus, unable to make its own way in the world, has enmeshed huge numbers of green algal cells, living on the food material which they produce.

That many of these plants are tens of thousands of years old is proved by the fact that by scraping away the crust of lichens the abrasions caused by the passage of ice during the glacial period are as fresh as though they had been made recently. The lichen has protected them from the weather ever since. The Glacial age is said by some scientists to have ended over 80,000 years ago.—London Tit-Bits.

Every Inhabitant of Town Helps Make Muslin

Practically everybody in the little town of Tarare, with its 12,000 inhabitants, in central France, recently referred to in By the Way, is interested in the making of muslin. Quite half the population are actual workers in the mills or in their homes, where muslin is either made on household looms or covered with most beautiful embroidery.

Although the population of Tarare has diminished in recent years the muslin industry is still very remunerative, and there are some streets in which one's guide will point to the houses of men who (in France) are multimillionaires—men of great wealth who continue to live side by side with less fortunate citizens, who "thee" and "thou" their rich neighbors as they pass them in the streets. All these people are ready to admit that they owe their prosperity and livelihood to the work and perseverance of M. Antoine Simonet; but they will also tell one that something is due to the water of the river Turdine, which gives the light cotton materials of Tarare certain incomparable qualities as regards texture and color which are recognized by women the world over.—Detroit News.

A Rogues' Gallery

An elderly man of ultra-convivial habits, but withal learned and bookish, was haled before the bar of justice in a country town.

"Ye're charged with bein' drunk and disorderly," snapped the magistrate. "Ei-ve ye anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced?"

"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn," began the prisoner in a flight of oratory. "I am not so debased as Poe, so profligate as Byron, so ungrateful as Kents, so intemperate as Burns, so timid as Tennyson, so vulgar as Shakespeare, so—"

"That'll do, that'll do," interrupted the magistrate. "Ninety days. And, offices: take down that list of names he mentioned and round 'em up. I think they're as bad as he is."—American Legion Weekly.

TRYING TO SAVE CALIFORNIA'S REDWOOD FORESTS

IF the California redwoods are to be saved, the heedless hacking and starting of conflagrations, with no effort at replanting, which is responsible for this condition, must be stopped. It is to the end of stopping it that the "Save-the-Redwoods" league is working and it is in this body that rests California's hope of preserving a part of its original beautiful forests.

PASSING OF MARIE CORELLI ---WRITER WITH VISION

THE world has lost one of its greatest woman writers in the passing of Marie Corelli, who gave to humanity some twenty volumes of inspiring romance, which have been read and enjoyed by millions of readers.

Miss Corelli, whose real name was Catherine Cody, was born in the slums of London in 1854, of humble parents.

In her early twenties she developed a talent out of which was born her initial work, "Romance of Two Worlds." Following this she wrote "Ardath" and then "The Soul of Lillith." Some years later she penned "Wormwood," "Barabbas" and "The Life Everlasting," each one a beautiful romance, in which tenderness and reverence were blended with far-sighted vision.

Marie Corelli had many unappreciative critics who were too narrow to enjoy her writings but she cared not a particle for their opinions, which only spurred her to greater efforts.

Miss Corelli's books will live to the end of time and will be appreciated by generations to come more than they have in the past.

"FLOWING GOLD"—OIL FIELDS STORY THRILLS

REX BEACH has an enviable faculty for putting a big story over with a punch. He understands the art of mixing sunshine and shadow, smiles and tears, in just the proper proportions. His writings are numerous and varied in theme. Almost all of them are interesting. The best of Beach's books have been adapted to the screen, "The Spoilers" being one of the first to touch the celluloid.

In "Flowing Gold," Beach has given to the cinema world, a romance replete with vigorous adventure, culminating in a series of thrills that have a tendency to grow hair on bald heads. It is the first real successful story of the oil fields that has come to the screen.

The cast of characters includes Milton Sills and Anna Q. Nilsson, two of the screen's most capable players.

Milton Sills displays great strength and character in all his work. He is especially good in pictures where there are mental as well as physical battles to wage.

Anna Q. Nilsson, aside from being a very fine looking woman, is one of the screen's most sincere and appealing actresses.

"Flowing Gold" was shown at Cody's May 4 to 6 and played to a packed house each night.

U. S. EXPERTS LEAD WAR ON FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

This is Dr. U. G. Houck of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, (left) who has been placed by Secretary Wallace in complete command of the tight being effectively waged on the foot and mouth disease outbreak in California, and G. H. Hecke, director Department of Agriculture, State of California, who is assisting Dr. Houck in quickly and permanently stamping out the epidemic.

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—The full force of the United States government has been brought into play effectively against the foot and mouth disease in California. The disease has been confined to certain limited districts in the state and the work of stamping it out is proceeding rigorously under the direction of Dr. U. G. Houck, personal representative of Secretary Wallace, department of agriculture, who has complete control of the combined federal and state forces. "Every method justified by our past experience and by scientific study is being used to prevent any possibility of spread of the disease and to wipe it out so thoroughly that there will be no chance of its recurrence," said Dr. Houck. "There is no danger of spread of the disease through shipment of fruits, vegetables or dairy products from the great non-infected areas of California. We know of no instance where the disease has been carried by such shipments," Dr. Houck said. Complete confidence in the men in the field was expressed by Dr. J. R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, in a message he has just sent to Dr. Houck and the local federal inspectors. "We have in California," he said, "the best equipped force of inspectors that was ever assembled on a foot and mouth detail. "Our methods are not experimental, but have been weighed in the balance of practical experience and have always produced the desired results."

Elephant Buries Master He Killed During Rage

An elephant, which was one of the finest in Ceylon and was known throughout the whole island, went wild at a kraal and ran amuck for several days. No one could approach him. His mahout finally hit upon the idea of curing him by frightening him. He covered himself with a black cloth and approached the maddened elephant in this disguise. Unhappily he had reckoned without his host. The beast was not frightened, but seized the mahout and killed him. However, when men rushed up to rescue the corpse, and the black cloth was withdrawn from the mahout's face, the elephant, recognizing the familiar countenance, underwent a marvelous transformation. Suddenly becoming perfectly calm, he approached the corpse, stroked it with his trunk, and emitted a peculiar whimpering and sobbing sound. Then the elephant dug a great hole in the ground with his feet, pushed the corpse into it and covered it with twigs and branches which he tore from the nearest trees. During all this time he kept up his peculiar whining, whimpering noise. After this was done he let himself be led away quietly. The story may sound incredible, but many others besides myself witnessed the incident—it is absolutely true and known throughout Ceylon.—Memoirs of John Hagenbeck, Wild Animal Dealer, Summarized for the Neue Presse (Vienna).

Magician of Africa Is Respected by Natives

In nearly every district in South Africa there is generally some old native who is a descendant of former witch doctors, to whom the surrounding natives go for advice. He is the "thrower of bones." And it is an instance of the childlike faith and simplicity of the natives that they firmly believe in the magic of this man. He is usually a very old man, with teeth black from smoking "dagga" (a kind of hemp), a face all lines and wrinkles, and eyes that are coppered with the pale blue film of great age. He wears bangles and charms and strips of lizard's skin on his arms and wrists and always the same old colored blanket with jackal's tails on the border. The natives from far and near consult him on many matters—causes of sickness, death and loss of stock. And his fee may be a fowl or a sheep or half a bag of grain or even in some cases a heifer.—Detroit News.

Petition to Raise Quarantine Has Many Signers

A petition containing nearly 200 names, has been sent in to the Board of Supervisors, asking that the quarantine be removed on all sections free from the hoof and mouth infection.

All infected sections will still be under strict quarantine and private ranches, not infected, may remain under quarantine at the option of the owner.

A report is out that the quarantine is to be officially removed, although those going up in the canyons will have to secure permits, which may be had for the asking.

While the reaction on business has been severe, California people look forward with expectancy to a full return of the business activity enjoyed previous to the quarantine.

The petition circulated in Newhall was sponsored by J. P. Geraghty, director of sales for the La Joya Lodge property, being sold by the Salsbury Syndicate, of 318 West Sixth Street, Los Angeles.

Mr Geraghty reports that the road to the La Joya cabin sites will be open Sunday.

A lot in the Lamkin-Swall tract has been sold to some Los Angeles people. R. S. Highland has purchased a lot in the same tract.

The sale of acreage to Mrs. J. R. Anderson is reported.

A Doctor's Life

The doctor sent a bill for $10 to the terrible tempered Mr. Bangs. The bill read, "Two visits—$10."

"You're a robber," said Mr. Bangs. "Five dollars a visit! It isn't worth it."

"I'll rewrite the bill," said the doctor, and Bangs smiled. They couldn't put anything like that over on him.

Then the doctor wrote: "To getting out of bed at 2 a. m., answering phone, disturbing my wife, dressing, going to garage, cranking 'tin Lizzie,' two-mile drive in the cold, saving baby's life, return to garage, waking wife, undressing, getting back into bed—$10."

He said to Bangs: "I won't make any charge for the second visit, and you need not pay for the first unless you feel I have earned the money."

Mr. Bangs paid the bill.

By Compressed Air

Nowadays, in sinking caissons for bridges over certain rivers it is possible to make compressed air do the work of shovels in removing the sand, through a thick stratum of which, in some cases, the caisson is forced down toward the bedrock deep beneath. The sand is sometimes so pure and loose that the force of the compressed air supplied for the workmen in the caisson suffices to drive it up through blowpipes inserted in the caisson for the purpose. Jets of water are directed against the sand around the bottom of the blowpipes, and when thus dislodged the sand readily passes up through the pipes with the strong air currents that are continually pouring into them from the compressed atmosphere of the caisson.

Portraits of Shakespeare

Two portraits of Shakespeare are sufficiently diverse to add piquancy to the problem, "What did Shakespeare really look like?" The painting called the Felton portrait, first discovered in a broker's shop in the Minories in 1788, by "a gentleman of fashion," shows him beardless except for a slight tuft of hair under the lower lip and a small fair mustache. The Lumley portrait, which was originally in possession of Lord Lumley, a contemporary of the poet's, is more in keeping with the generally accepted fancy of Shakespeare's appearance. He is shown with a florid complexion, a close-cropped beard and small brown mustache.

Of Course Not

Evelyn—Harold, the diamond in my engagement ring has a flaw in it.

Harold—Don't bother about it, dear. Love should be blind.

Evelyn—I know, Harold, but not stone blind.

The Higher the Fewer

Conversation between husbands when wages for wives take effect:

"What do you pay your wife?"

"A hundred dollars a month, but you've no idea how hard it is to keep a good one."

Radio Used by Police

When the telephone was perfected it was considered a valuable ally of the police in apprehending escaping criminals, but the automobile has largely spoiled its usefulness. One person can only phone to one place at one time, while a bandit in an automobile may be going elsewhere in any direction. Police departments are now adopting printing telegraphs and the radio as a supplement to the phone. Outlying and suburban police stations are equipped with receiving apparatus, and one operator at the central station can flash the description of the fleeing criminal in all directions instantly, laying down a barrage of publicity through which it is more difficult to escape.

CALIFORNIA LEADS IN CARELESSNESS

California, with a record of 2,240 forest fires that burned over 942,565 acres, was the worst fire state in the Union in 1923. Seventy per cent of these fires were man-caused and could have been prevented.

Our citizens, accustomed to the thrill of leadership, bow in shame when these facts are recorded.

Help Prevent Forest Fires

Our forests should be cherished for three reasons:

1. Their natural scenic beauty.
2. Their timber supply.
3. Their aid in timber conservation.

Burned forests build no homes.

Leave a clean camp and a dead fire.

One tree will make a million matches.

One match may destroy a million trees.
