OFFICERS MEET BULLETS IN ATTEMPTED ARREST

Gus LeBrun, Crazed by Drink and Jealousy Fights Till Dead. Fatally Wounds Ed Brown

As a climax to the tangled love and business affairs of Gus LeBrun and Bonita Darling, or Nellie Bayless, LeBrun was killed and Deputy Constable Ed Brown was mortally wounded in a fierce gun fight which took place about 9:30 Sunday morning when Constable Jack Pilcher and Mr. Brown drove to the Darling ranch to arrest LeBrun who, the woman claimed was waiting to kill her.

As the officers drove into the ranch which is about a mile south of town along the railroad, laugh." That letter was written a LeBrun jumped from behind a bush and ordered them to throw up their hands, at the same time covering them with a rifle. Mr. Pilcher swung the car around so the back was toward LeBrun just as the latter opened fire. The first shot came thru the back seat and cut a top standard close to Mr. Pilcher's head. The officers threw Saturday afternoon, after ion themselves out of the Car and returned the fire. Both Brown and Pilcher made their shots count, and after emptying his rifle, shooting part of the time from the ground, LeBrun cried, "You've got me, boys; I'll quit," The officers had escaped injury so far, and walked over to where LeBrun lay crumpled on the ground, his hands clasping his body. As they stooped to lift him up, be suddenly jerked a large revolver from beneath his jacket and fired two shots, one at each officer. Quick as a flash both officers fired, and it was the finish for LeBrun. Brown clapped his hand to his side, remarking, "Well Jack, he got me that time." Mr Pilcher saw that Brown was hard hit, and hurried him to town, where Dr. McAdory gave him first aid. He was then removed to the General Hospital at Los Angeles where an operation was performed but the wound was found be in vital parts, having gone entirely thru the body, just below the ribs. He never rallied from the operation, and passed away about four o'clock, Sunday afternoon.

Captain Bright, of the sheriff's office, came up Sunday afternoon, and after viewing LeBrun's body, turned it over to undertaker Noble of San Fernando.

LeBrnn's body bore half a dozen wounds, any one of which would ciation speaks at Hollywood Bowl have proved fatal, and a large part Sunday, Sept 21, 4 P. of the fight including the killing free, no collection.

of Ed Brown, took place while he apparently careless of what happened to him, and fought desperately to the last.

Gus' troubles with Bonita Darling began when he went to dig a well for her and followed that up floral pieces were evidence of the with other work He alleged in a esteem of his friends. The busiletter written a few days before the crime that she had promised ed during the hour of the funeral to marry him if he would loan her $200, which he states in his letter he did, only to have her turn him down and "give him the horse week before the crime and was a lo g rambling account of the affairs of himself and the woman, closed with the statement that he was going to end his middle aged life which he alleged she had ruined, and expressed a determination to fix her so she would never fool anybody else as she had him.

wrangle the affairs of the two were settled, Judge Miller arranging the matter and drawing up the note of $150, the amount agreed on as the amount due LeBrun. Mrs Darling signed and Gus accepted it and agreed to stay away from the ranch.

But on Sunday morning in a jeal us rage he armed himself with Sunday morning, to be confronted, she says, by LeBrung with the kill her and himself. She says she fainted, and reviving, pleaded for all who knew him, time to get something to eat, and tried to send him for some bread. He refused to go, she said, but finally allowed her to go, with the strict injunction to come right back, and not go near the officers or he'd get them too. She came to Newhall and notified Judge Miller with the above result.

Ed Brown was a fine official, absolutely fearless in the discharge of his duties, and was loved and re-spected by all who knew him.

Gus LeBruns has lived here practically all his life and was only known as a "bad man" when under the influence of liquor.

He was preceded by the most beautiful and impressive burial ervice of the order of which he was a member. Interment was in Grandview Cemetery.

Many beautiful flowers and ness houses of Newhall were closas a token of respect.

It is with sadness indeed that we write of the passing of Ed Brown, who lost his life Sunday, while in the line of duty as deputy constable, as related elsewhere in these columns.

Ed Brown was born in Missouri forty-four years ago and was one of a family of several brothers and happy life. sisters. About fourteen years ago he with his wife came to Saugus from Nevada, where they have since lived, with the exception of McFarland.

About two years ago he was appointed deputy constable and at once made his mark as a brave, efficient and competent officer.

We are at a loss to find words that would express the esteem in which Ed Brown was held by his fellow citizens. Every one loved and respected Ed Brown. Loyalty, the rifle and revolver and drove to honesty, kindness and courage the ranch. The woman had been were attributes of his daily life, away from home, and drove back both as officer and citizen. In his untimely death, the community loses a man whom it can ill spare, rifle, who told her he was going to and whose upright and kindly life will ever be a pleasant memory to

CARD OF THANKS

To the dear friends who so kind-ly helped with their loving sympa-thy and beautiful flowers in my hour of sorrow, I offer my sincerest thanks. Mrs. Josie Liebhart

IN MEMORY OF ED BROWN

He has been taken from us, our best loved friend and officer. Never was he heard to speak an unkind word to man or beast. No man, woman or child of us but bows his head and cherishes memories of some help at his hands. He was the daily personification of the Golden Rule. Unto the end of time in our little community will be felt the inspiration of your beautiful life, Ed Brown.

The terrible tragedy of last Sunday in which a brave officer lost his life, and a liquor-crazed demented murderer met swift justice at the hands of a brother officer, saddened the entire community. And in reviewing the crime one is struck by the fact that some one, tho knowing the murderer as harmless when sober, worthless, maybe, but a "bad man" who would shoot without sense or reason when drunk, sold Gus LeBrun the liquor that nerved him to kill Ed Brown. And it matters little that his wrath was turned from its real object. The responsibilty rests on the bootlegger just the same. There is no particular moral to be made; only

Ed Brown was a good friend, good fellow, and a good officer. Absolute loyalty to his friends and his duty, was one of his noblest characteristics. That he should suffer the supreme sacrifice in the line of duty is not nearly so terrible a thought as that he was a victim of cowardice and trechery that failed to give him an even break for the life. GRAND OPENING IS A HUGE SUCCESS

The L. A. Club Saxonia which recently purchased the R. J. Wilson place at the entrance to Quigley Canyon, held their grand opening last Sunday, the 14th, and if, success can be mensured by numbers present, then it must be said it was a grand success as well as a grand opening, as there were more than seventy-five auto loads of members, their friends and their respective families. And this despite the fact that, there was another big German picinc held nearer Los Angeles. It is stated that the crowd numbered more than three hundred.

The chief attraction on the program was what might be termed the "shoot-off" with the cross bow to determine which of the members should "shoot-off termine which of the members snountermine which of the ensuing year.
After considerable spirited competition given him by the other members, the crown was taken by Mr. R. Bauer, who was thereby declared king of the the crown was taken by an in the who was thereby declared king of the archers.

In this paper a week ago a rough outline of the plans this club has laid for improvements during the coming year was made. As a means of helping rolieve the financial burden, attendant upon such a large improvement program, a nominal charge was made for all drinks and food at Sunday's picnic, and it is reported that something in the neighborhood of $200 was cleared. And surely coffee, sodss, near beer in large mugs at 5c per would be considered nominal. At any rate, the way both the drinks and fae food disappeared it would, seem the crowd thought they were getting their money's worth—plus.

In wishing the L. A. Club Saxonia many pleasant outings and much prosperity, this paper believes it is expressing the sentiment of all of Newhall and vicinity.
